S.T. Peterson Appeal On Elm Ridge Rd. Land Is Dimissed by Court

After years of trying to win a use variance for a major office building at the corner of Elm Ridge and Carter Roads, the S.T. Peterson Company may have come up against a dead end.

Last Friday, Superior Court Judge Paul Levy dismissed an appeal from the South Brunswick construction company to overturn the Hopewell Township Zoning Board's most recent denial of the necessary use variance. Barring another appeal, the decision ends a seven-year battle to develop the 85-acre property, which is bisected by the Hopewell-Lawrenceville boundary and is zoned residential in both townships.

S.T. Peterson appealed the unanimous decision in December, 1985, of a specially constituted Hopewell zoning board, which had been ordered by Judge Levy to re-hear the application in the summer and fall of 1985, following an earlier rejection by the regular zoning board. In both instances, the variance was denied on the basis of traffic, environmental impact and neighborhood opposition.

According to Robert Billmeier, who was appointed special counsel to the specially constituted board, S.T. Peterson based its appeal on two areas of complaint. The company maintained that the zoning board's decision was not supported by the evidence. It also represented that a 1982 change in zoning that increased the minimum lot size for offices as a conditional use from 50 to 100 contiguous acres was unconstitutional and discriminatory.

After reviewing the transcript and hearing testimony last Friday, Judge Levy found that there was "substantial and credible" evidence to support the Zoning Board's

Planning Board to Discuss Lower Density for Housing Sites

A proposal to reduce the density on the various affordable housing sites in the Township will be discussed by the Planning Board at its work session Thursday night.

The agenda also includes an informal review of the Borough's proposal to build eight units on John and Clay Street sites as part of its in-fill affordable housing program. That discussion is scheduled from 8:50 to 10 p.m., after a public hearing on adding an Historic Preservation Element and Plan to the Princeton Community Master Plan.

Two Township zoning amendments, which are up for public hearing and possible adoption by Township Committee on Monday, will be discussed briefly by the Planning Board. State land use law requires planning/zoning ordinances, which normally originate as a recommendation of the planning board as these did, to be returned to the board before final adoption.

One amendment changes the Butler tract off Harrison Street from a residential half-acre

Committee Introduces Ordinance To Buy Last of Mtn. Lakes Land

Township Committee has introduced a bond ordinance for $850,000 in order to have funds available to buy the house and remaining six acres on the Mountain Lakes tract. The public hearing before adoption will be held Monday, July 6.

The funds would be added to Green Acres funds totalling $2.3 million, which have been promised but not yet received. Except for $575,000, which is an outright grant, these Green Acres monies are a loan which have to be repaid in 10 years at 2% interest.

Negotiations are pending with Joseph Menendez, who had an option to purchase the house along with the pool and pool house and six acres from the Hillier Group at the time the Township bought the bulk of the property to keep it from being developed. A $2.3-million gift from the Willard Trotter Case Johnson Foundation, through the Nature Conservancy, was used to purchase the original 68 acres as a park.

The house and its acreage were subsequently subdivided from the 75-acre tract, and Mr. Menendez completed his $975,000 purchase. He has since put the property on the market for $2.3 million.

Friends of Princeton Open Space are urging the Township to acquire the house and remaining acreage in order to complete the Mountain Lakes park. The Friends have proposed a foundation be set up to purchase the house and one acre and operate it as a nature center. A gift of $550,000 from an unidentified donor would be used to set up

Public Hearing Thursday On Affordable Housing On John, Clay Streets

The public will have its first chance to comment on plans for eight affordable housing units on John and Clay Streets this Thursday at a meeting of the Regional Planning Board. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Valley Road Building.

Plans for the eight two-story units were unveiled at last week's Borough Council meeting, and have since been the subject of a private meeting in a home on John Street.

When the plans were presented to Mayor and Council by Architect John Clarke, there were no members of the public in the audience. This was in sharp contrast to meetings on the Hamilton Avenue site, when numerous residents came out to be heard. Their complaints eventually led to a reduction in the number of units on Hamilton Avenue from 20 to 16.

Mayor Barbara Sigmund said that John Street neighbors were told a week prior to the meeting that the houses would be a topic for discussion by Council on June 9. However, the press was not informed that this would be an agenda item.

the foundation, which is in the process of being incorporated, according to Township Administrator James J. Pascale.

As the bond ordinance for $850,000 was being introduced at last Monday's Township Committee meeting, Mayor Gail W. Firestone told the audience that "when all the money that is due us (is in), the cost to the taxpayer (to acquire the Mountain Lakes tract) will be quite minimal in terms of acquisition costs." Mr. Pascale described the bond ordinance as "temporary borrowing until Green Acres funds and the money from the donor comes in."

However, Township Committeeman Thomas Poole expressed concern that the taxpayer could "get stuck," if the Green Acres funds and the donation is not forthcoming. Mr. Poole voted "yes" to introduction of the ordinance, saying he might not vote for approval if the dollars are not there.

Later, in the portion of the meeting reserved for "comments from the audience on matters not on the agenda," Laurence Glasberg urged Committee to make acquisition of the five-acre Larson tract the number one priority for 1987. The tract is one of three properties, including a small area of the Mountain tract, for which the Township has applied for 1987 Green Acres funds. Site of a house that burned down near the pipeline on top of the ridge off Autumn Hill Road, it juts into the Autumn Hills Reservation.

Mr. Glasberg told Committee that because of the environmental importance of the ridge, the Township should acquire the property "with or without" Green Acres funds. He alluded to the Mountain Lakes tract when he said the price was "relatively low." Because of the lateness of the hour, Mayor Firestone agreed to put the matter on a future agenda, when it could have fuller airing.

In other business, Mayor Firestone announced the composition of the joint committee to review parks and playground management and needs in both municipalities. Members will include James Sayen as the Planning Board representative; Judith Thompson, Recreation Board; Hugh Brandt, Board of Education; Peggy MacNeil, Environmental Commission; Marvin Reed, Borough Council; and Thomas Poole, Township Committee. Phyllis Marchand will be Mr. Poole's alternate.

Committee also agreed that municipal employees deserve Friday, July 3, as a holiday, since the 4th of July falls on a Saturday. When a holiday falls on a Sunday, the following Monday is automatically a day off, but no provision had been made for a Saturday holiday, Mr. Pascale explained.

There was also discussion of a computer-read health card to be provided to firemen and policemen by the company that seeks to promote the applicable software it has developed. The company would also like to distribute the card, which is equipped with a computer chip that can be programmed with an individual's medical history, to seniors living in subsidized housing.

The company, Affiliated Health Care, would provide the card free to firemen and policemen for one year, but they would have to subscribe at $28 per family in subsequent years. Princeton Medical Center has agreed to install the device that would "read" the card when a subscriber is admitted, but a spokesman said the Medical Center will have to evaluate how the information is updated and how effective it is.

The only other area hospitals to have this device are St. Peter's in New Brunswick and Hamilton Hospital, it was said. Committee felt it did not have jurisdiction over the use of such a card by senior citizens of the community, and deferred decision on whether or not to commit firemen and policemen to its use, pending discussion with the police and fire chiefs.

Developer Seeks a Use Variance to Build 200-Room Hotel on Rt. 18 in Montgomery

A Hillsborough developer was scheduled to go before the Montgomery Township Zoning Board of Adjustment last Tuesday as TOWN TOPICS went to press to seek a use variance to build a 200-room hotel on Route 518.

The developer is Robert Tuschak, who has an option to buy the 164-acre Drake farm on the south side of Route 518, opposite Opossum Road. The land is presently zoned RD (research development), which does not allow hotels. However, an ad hoc committee made up of Montgomery Township Committee members and Planning Board members have become concerned about the amount of traffic that could be generated by the full development of the RD and the REO (research engineering and offices) zones in the southeastern section of the Township.

This group has retained George Raymond of Raymond, Parish, Pine and Weiner to make a study of the zoning in this area. The report is expected within the next week or two. Among the recommended zoning changes which could cut potential traffic generation by 75 percent is one that includes hotels. The Drake farm is specified as an area that would be suitable for a hotel.

Under the application by Mr. Tuschak's Colfax Corporate Centers, only a portion of the 164-acre property would be used for a hotel. The rest of the land would be developed according to the current zoning, which presently allows for offices.

The proposed building is described as a "low-key, inn-style hotel." It would include a restaurant, lounge and coffee shop and is designed to provide Montgomery residents and corporations with a place where relatives and employees could stay that is closer than the Nassau Inn or the hotels on Route 1.

The Tuesday meeting was for a use variance only. If granted, the company would seek site plan approval at a later date.

Landfill Opposition. At the other end of Montgomery Township, opposition to Somerset County's plan to cite a landfill on a field off Route 206 just south of the Belle Mead bridge is gathering momentum. Montgomery Mayor Alexander Robinson held a press conference this week at the 155-acre site to announce the formation of a coalition called REFUSE — Residents Encouraging Farsighted Use of Somerset's Environment.

The coalition was established by the township and has the financial backing of the Belle Mead Development Company. This company intends to build Mt. Laurel housing for the township across the highway and a life-care facility for the elderly and related services on the site itself. In addition to objecting to a mountainous landfill across from its court-approved Mt. Laurel housing program, Montgomery maintains that soils on the site are not suitable for a landfill and that leachate could contaminate groundwater recharge areas.

REFUSE plans to coordinate phone banks, petition drives and letter-writing campaigns in advance of the public hearing on the issue scheduled for June 30 by the Somerset Board of Chosen Freeholders. The township may organize bus transportation to the hearing.

A meeting has also been scheduled for Wednesday, June 24, at the Montgomery High School at 7:30, which Montgomery residents are encouraged to attend. Stanley J. Birch Jr., president of the Carrier Foundation, is president of REFUSE, and Kenneth Barnhart is vice chairman. They are urging all citizens to write the freeholders to voice their opposition to the landfill.

According to Township Administrator Peter Raynor, several thousand people have already signed petitions against the landfill since petitions went out last week. The opposition gained further strength when a group of citizens who are concerned about the garbage truck traffic along Route 206 through Hillsborough organized C.A.R.E. (Concerned Area Residents Effort) and pledged to help Montgomery in its fight against the landfill.

tion by septic systems should the area be developed at a greater density.

Mathesius, Harry Sayen, president of MSM (Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Council), and Ingrid Reed, chairperson of the Mercer County Planning Board, will lead the discussion.

Area Growth Management Topic of Joint Meeting

Borough and Township municipal and planning officials have been invited to a meeting Tuesday at 7:30 to discuss the concept of "cross-acceptance," or the coordination of growth management efforts in Mercer County.

The meeting will be held in the Lawrence Township Municipal Building, Route 206, and will include elected officials from Lawrence Township and West Windsor Township in addition to the two Princetons, Mercer County Executive Bill

A process for municipal and county cross-acceptance of development proposals is expected to be a key element in the proposed draft of the state development and redevelopment plan that will be voted in July. The purpose is to achieve integration, compatibility and consistency among local, county, regional and state development plans.

Cross-acceptance rules and regulations will not take effect until the state guide plan is voted. And even then, municipal and county participation is voluntary. However, Mr. Sayen, Mr. Mathesius and Mrs. Reed believe that the process presents a framework by which the various levels of government can exchange information on development and about areas which should not be developed. They are eager to begin the process even before the state plan is voted.

Lawrence Master Plan. Meanwhile, Lawrence Township was scheduled to hold a public meeting on the proposed Lawrence Township Master Plan last Tuesday and again this Thursday at 8 in the lower level meeting room of the Lawrence Township Municipal Building. Another public hearing will be held Thursday, June 25, if required.

Montgomery Township is also scheduled to hold a special meeting on proposed zoning changes for the residential area in the Sourland Mountains. An increase in minimum lot size from three acres to five is proposed because of concerns over availability of adequate ground water and possible contamina-

TRENTON ROUNDUP

Assembly Approves Welfare Reform

The state Assembly has passed legislation requiring nearly all able-bodied recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children to participate in job training, go to school, or work. Women caring for children under the age of two, or in poor health, would be exempted.

The state would provide schooling, day care, transportation, medical coverage, and job placement services to participants in the "workfare" program.

Mercer would be among the first five counties in the state to implement the program, which would begin in February. The bill now goes to the Senate for a vote.

Chemical Bill Package

A series of measures designed to prevent chemical transportation accidents in New Jersey has been approved by the Assembly Environmental Quality Committee.

Included in the package are bills that would provide a system for identifying and correcting potential causes of accidents at loading facilities; require those who transport certain hazardous materials to obtain permits from the Department of Environmental Protection; require shippers to evaluate the safety of routes taken when transporting hazardous materials; and set aside up to $1.5 million annually to train emergency personnel in methods of dealing with accidents involving hazardous substances.

Anti Plastic Containers

Legislation banning the sale of plastic containers has been introduced by Assemblyman Alan J. Karcher, D-Middlesex. It would forbid the sale of all retail products packaged or wrapped in plastic containers, and would apply to materials that cannot naturally disintegrate within three years.

Breathalyzer Ruling

The United States Supreme Court rejected an appeal by a New Jersey man who was not allowed to talk with a lawyer before taking a "breathalyzer" test to measure the alcohol level in his blood.

The Court let stand a ruling that police may require motorists suspected of driving while intoxicated to submit to such tests without first allowing them to consult an attorney.

Agreement Is Reached On Dinky Drop-Offs

Borough Council and Princeton University have agreed on a plan that will meet Mayor Barbara Sigmund's concerns about safety when dropping off and picking up Dinky passengers. The details of the agreement were announced at the June 9 meeting of Borough Council.

In exchange for Borough permission to build on its right of way, Princeton University officials will allow six spaces to remain in front of the station building. This will permit cars coming from either direction on University Place to pull, head in, in front of the station to drop off or pick up passengers.

Also, the University will permit a slight adjustment to the curved bay of the 65-foot plaza it plans to build in front of the Dinky. This plaza is to contain 11 spaces to be used by taxis as well as for drop-off and pick-up of passengers by cars heading north on University Place.

The agreement also calls for the extension to 25 feet of the 18-foot driveway from University Place into the new parking lot currently under construction by the University. The Borough and the University — at some future date, not to exceed one year — will discuss whether to allow exit from the lot onto University Place; currently, entrance only is permitted. The lot's only exit is at its south end, onto Alexander Street.

In other business, Council has formed a subcommittee to look into concerns voiced by the

PHS Graduation Friday

Commencement exercises will be held Friday at 6:30 on the campus at Princeton High School. The graduation is being held later in the term than usual because of the number of snow days this past winter.

The Rev. Carol L. Brandt will give the invocation, followed by an address of welcome by Peter Paris, president of the Class of 1987. Cornelia Bitter will deliver the salutatory address, and Shelly Chu the valedictory address.

After the presentation of diplomas, the Rev. Dr. Peter Paris, of Princeton Theological Seminary, will give the benediction.

The complete list of Princeton High School graduates will be carried in next week's issue of TOWN TOPICS.

owners of the WaWa building, Marty and Mary Bratman, about the proposed elimination of all parking spaces in the University-owned road that runs from Nassau Street to the Engineering Quadrangle. This road parallels WaWa, Princeton Dry Cleaners, and the new Davidson's, which is scheduled to open Tuesday.

Nanette Falik, co-owner of the dry cleaners, said it was necessary for her customers to be able to park alongside her store. A representative of WaWa expressed concern about the need for loading from this roadway.

The comments came as Council was about to vote on an ordinance that would ban all parking from the roadway, a move requested by the Zoning Board of Adjustment when it approved plans for Davidson's to move into the former Volvo building.

The Zoning Board also ruled that Davidson's must request Mayor and Council Borough police powers on the short artery and ask the governing body to forbid lefthand turns from the road onto Nassau Street between 4 and 6 p.m. These requests have been made.

Until a proposed new street paralleling Nassau Street from the back of Davidson's to Olden Street is constructed, this 25-foot roadway is the only entrance to, and exit from, the Davidson's parking lot.

For the moment — and with the need for some regulation intensifying with the supermarket's imminent opening — Council resolved to permit parking only on the east side of the roadway (named, temporarily, the Engineering School Access Driveway). The subject will come up for discussion again at the Borough Council meeting scheduled for Tuesday at 8.

Weather Cooperates, The Fete Draws 35,000

Although storms drenched the surrounding area, only a few drops fell on the Fete, an event that seems unfailingly to be held under dry skies.

The estimated 35,000 who attended the annual event on a hot and muggy Saturday drank thousands of gallons of soda, beer, water and juice. More than 2,000 snow cones were consumed, and most of the food was sold out by early afternoon. By mid-afternoon, 3,500 clams-on-the-half-shell were gone.

The Fete day began at 9 a.m., with the 10-K race through Princeton. Overall race winner was Tom Jirele of Langhorne, Pa., with a time of 31:56.8. Winner of the women's class was FETE CAR WINNER: Laura Curtis, 294 Western Way, is the winner of this year's Fete car: a 1987 Ford Mustang convertible. She is shown with the car at Nassau-Conover before leaving for the Motor Vehicle Bureau to pick up the papers. A Princeton resident since 1961, she usually buys four raffle tickets: for herself, her husband, Michael, and their two grown sons. But this year she bought only two tickets — and the rest is history.

Barbara Kalmus of Cranbury won the Rainier swing set, and winners of the $200 shopping spree were the Brezezinski family of East Windsor; J. Shillaber and Lynn Blackstone of Princeton; Joanne Bini of Hightstown, and Martha Swirsky of Murray Hill.

At the end of the day, items not sold at Treasure Aisle were donated to Womanspace and the Ewing Neighborhood Service Center. Also, the Fete sponsored a truck to take unsold household items to the Guiding Light of Truth Church in the Bronx, where they will be distributed free to needy families.

Annual Italian Festival At the Shopping Center

The Princeton Shopping Center will hold its annual outdoor Italian Festival on Saturday, June 27. The festival features authentic Italian foods, fashions, music and contests.

In conjunction with the festivities, Pizza Star and Rosa's Caffe will hold the second annual Princeton Pizza Spin-Off, a competition pitting area pizza chefs against one another, beginning at 2. At 1 p.m. Stella Fruscione Courtney and her 12-piece John Peraino Festival Orchestra will play traditional songs such as "O Solo Mio," "Core'n Grato," and "Funiculi, Funicula." The group has performed throughout the area at ethnic festivals.

Another highlight of the Italian Festival is the drawing for the winner of two tickets to Italy, courtesy of the Princeton Shopping Center Merchants Association, Alitalia Airlines and Omni Travel. Entry forms may be obtained at several stores in the Shopping Center.

Beginning at noon, Apples the Clown will entertain with magic, juggling and buffoonery. At 1, the Bridge Clothing Company, the Shopping Center's newest merchant, will present a showing of summer fashions by Guess, Liz Claiborne and Girbaud, modeled by the Princeton Nautilus ExerDance instructors.

The winner of the Pizza Spin-Off and the tickets to Italy will be announced at 3. At that time, everyone is invited to Rosa's Caffe to help celebrate the Ital-

And the Beat Goes On: More Break-ins Here

The beat of break-ins in the Borough continued without let-up last week.

A Snowden Lane home was entered Monday morning between 12:30 and 8 by an intruder who used a screwdriver to pry open a first-floor living room window. Once inside, he took a VCR and approximately 40 pieces of sterling silverware for which police have not yet received a value. The culprit, who left the screwdriver outside the window, exited through a sliding glass door.

A cellar door was pulled from its hinges to enter a Linden Lane home between 11 Sunday night and 6:30 Monday morning. Police report some of the wood was rotting, making it easy for the culprit to gain entry. Once inside, the thief went up the cellar steps and entered the first floor, taking $75 from a wallet in the dining room and a VCR valued at $385 from the living room.

A home on Stanley Avenue was entered during the weekend while the owners were away. The culprit, police said, removed a screen and then pushed up an unlocked bedroom window to get inside. Taken were $140 in cash, a number of pieces of jewelry, a VCR, turntable and cassette recorder.

The VCR was later found in the victims' garage and the turntable and recorder in the rear yard next to a fence. Ptl. David Dudeck investigated.

GRAND PRIZE WINNER: Daniel Skvir (right) of 109 Rollingmead is congratulated by Irv Urken, president of Urken's Supply Company on Witherspoon Street for winning the grand prize of a Weber Genesis gas barbeque grill during the store's 50th Anniversary Sale.

An unoccupied house on Moore Street was entered between 7:40 and 11:15 Thursday evening, again by way of the cellar where, police said, the intruder pushed in a locked cellar window. Stolen were a tape deck, a stereo recorder and approximately 25 albums. Nothing else in the house was disturbed.

A resident of a North Harrison Street home heard a noise in the kitchen between 10:30 and 11 Saturday night and thought it was the family cat. Police said as the occupant entered the kitchen to yell at the cat, he noticed a screen had been raised up. In plain view of the kitchen window were a purse and a camera, which could be seen from the street.

According to Capt. Thomas Michaud, the suspect had used a long, metal weeding tool taken from some other site to pry open the window screen — the noise which the occupant had heard. The suspect was frightened off and no entry was gained.

A home on Franklin Avenue was entered overnight last week by a thief who first dragged a patio table underneath a window on the east side of the house. After pulling the window open, he removed a screen and entered the home.

Once inside, he rummaged through a wallet, which contained no cash and then attempted to remove a VCR from a cabinet by disconnecting the wires. He failed to take the VCR but did remove a $400 stereo amplifier from the living room, police said, before exiting through a sliding glass door.

A third-floor, rear apartment in a building in the 200 block of Nassau Street was entered by prying open a door. The intruder opened a cabinet door in the living room and searched and rifled drawers in the bedroom, police said, but nothing was taken.

An electric typewriter valued at $450 was stolen last week from an office rented by the June Opera Festival in the Princeton Arts Council Building on the corner of Green and Witherspoon Streets. There were people in the building working at the time and the office door was not locked. The theft was not reported until Thursday, two days after the theft, because it was thought, at first, that an employee had taken the typewriter home.

Four Rooms Entered. A Princeton University owned building on University Place was entered early last week by an intruder who removed a storm window to enter a first-floor room. Police report the building houses a number of apartments and dormitory-type rooms.

Taken from one room was $100 in cash, $900 in jewelry from an adjoining room, $150 and $500 in jewelry from a third room and $550 in jewelry from a fourth adjoining room.

A student's room in the Quadrangle Club on Prospect Avenue was entered without force between 10 Friday evening and 1 the next morning. Taken from the first-floor room were a cassette radio, $100 in cash, a pair of sunglasses, a sweater and a collection of T-shirts and sweat shirts worth a combined $525.

In another campus theft, someone entered an unlocked student's room in 1903 Hall and took a $100 gold chain and $60 from the top of a dresser.

Three in the Township. A home on Wilson Road in the Township was entered between 11 Saturday night and 2 Sunday morning. Entry was gained by cutting a screen and opening an unlocked window on the west side. Taken from the TV room were a 17-inch color television set valued at $520, $100 in cash and a $20 gold pen. The intruder exited through a window on the south side of the home.

According to Capt. Jack Petrone, a tenant in the house heard some suspicious noises against a window around 1:30 and the sound of someone walking inside. At the time, the tenant did not call police but in checking again later at 2, noticed the television set missing from the den. The owner called police at 9 in the morning.

A Snowden Lane resident called police at 1:17 Tuesday morning. The caller reported she was asleep when she heard noises and looked out a window and saw a young, white male standing in the driveway.

When police arrived, they found pry marks on a basement door and the lock broken. They checked the interior of the home and surrounding area but found nothing.

A resident of Witherspoon Street told police she was in her cellar at 1:11 Tuesday morning and when she walked from the cellar into the kitchen she heard the front storm door slam and the sound of footsteps running away from the house. In checking she saw two suspects fleeing and called police.

She described the suspects as two young males of unknown race wearing light-colored shirts and sneakers. She told police she had put the garbage out and had forgotten to close the front door upon re-entering the house.

Pastries Are Stolen From Wawa Drop Box

To frustrate thieves who were stealing breads and pastries left by early-morning deliverymen, the Nassau Street Wawa Store earlier this year had a delivery drop-off box placed in front of the store.

Last week, between 3 and 5 in the morning, someone broke open the lock hasp on the box and departed with a collection of donuts, muffins and pastries valued at $55.

A shaving set comprised of a brass razor, wooden shaving brush and cup valued at $29.50 was shoplifted Friday afternoon from Crabtree & Evelyn, 53 Palmer Square at a time, police said, when several customers were in the store.

A student's wallet containing $40 and credit cards was stolen last week from a third-floor study in the Colonial Club on Prospect Avenue, and Township police report a $70 skateboard was taken during a ten-minute period Sunday night from the front porch of a Redding Circle resident. The victim's mother told police she believed that a group of rowdy children playing in the area at the time was responsible for the theft.

Early last week, three juveniles were observed by two off-duty Township patrolmen attempting to remove a metal sign from the side of an office building on Alexander Street across the street from Forbes College.

The youths, 15 to 17, including a boy and a girl from the Borough and a boy from Pennington, told Ptl. John Seeley Jr. and Ptl. Robert Buchanan that they were in town for the reunion ceremonies and thought they would like to have a sign. All were later released, after a report of the incident was turned over to the Township Juvenile Officer.

Investigation Continues Into Alleged $32 Robbery

Borough police are listing it as a robbery, although Capt. Thomas Michaud said this week that details of last week's incident are lacking and police have had no further contact with the victim.

As related by Capt. Michaud, the victim, a 36-year-old Borough resident, told police he was walking down John Street after 11 Thursday morning carrying $32 in his hand. As he was walking, a car drove up and an occupant emerged and approached the victim. He accused him, Capt. Michaud continued, of being an informer, of telling the police about a crime he had allegedly committed.

Either two or three other persons got out of the car and an argument erupted between the victim and the suspects. A fight started. The suspects then allegedly grabbed the money from the victim's hand and returned to their car and drove off.

The victim told Ptl. Dennis McManimon that he recognized one of the suspects but did not know his name. All of the suspects, he said, were black males, two in their 30s. One, believed to be the driver, was 5-8, about 150 pounds; one of the passengers was 6-0, about 200 pounds. The suspects' car was described as a black Plymouth Duster with N.J. plates.

Capt. Michaud said this week the police investigation into the incident is continuing.

Assault Charge Filed; Employee vs. Employee

An apparent feud between two employees who had argued in the past, erupted into an assault last week at the Burger King on Nassau Street.

According to Capt. Thomas Michaud, when Rodney Gerald of Trenton pushed fellow employee Darnelle Geffard, 23, of Witherspoon Lane, she took a swing at him with an open can opener, striking him in the arm and opening a small laceration which began to bleed.

After responding to a 3:16 call last Wednesday afternoon, police took the two antagonists to headquarters where Mr. Gerald signed a complaint against Ms. Geffard for assault. A hearing in Borough court is scheduled for July 15.

Just Say No — To Fireworks

With the July 4 holiday approaching, Township police wish to remind residents that the use, sale or possession of fireworks in New Jersey is illegal. And penalties and fines for offenders are more severe.

The only thing that is legal in the state, according to Capt. Jack Petrone, is the use of paper or plastic caps in cap guns. All else, including trick matches, smoke grenades, and other seemingly harmless fireworks are illegal.

The penalty provisions of the two fireworks laws were amended in 1984 by the state legislature. Sale of fireworks is a disorderly persons offense with a maximum fine of $1,000 instead of $100 or six months in jail or both.

Those discharging or possessing fireworks are guilty of a petty disorderly persons offense and are subject to a $500 fine, or up to 30 days in jail or both.

Street last week, she took a pair of white shorts and a belt to try on in the dressing room. Claiming they didn't fit, she returned the shorts and started to walk out the store — setting off an alarm.

Police said the alarm was triggered by a device that is removed by a clerk from an item when it is purchased. An employee ran after Ms. Hua and apprehended her outside the store.

When police found a $35 Joan and David leather belt in her possession, she was taken to headquarters where a complaint summons was signed,

Origin Is Undetected For Chlorine Smell

Township police, responding to a 9:41 call Thursday morning reporting a strong odor of chlorine in the West Building of the Institute for Advanced Study, were unable to locate the origin of the odor.

Police did ascertain, Capt. Jack Petrone reported, that the Institute does store some small containers of the chemical to treat an outside reflection pool on the campus. Firemen also responded and vented the building with fans, after they, too, were unable to find the source of the odor.

No one was overcome and the odor did not return, Capt. Petrone said.

Two Workmen Felled By Smoke Inhalation

Two Princeton University employees suffered smoke inhalation Thursday during a small fire at Spelman Hall on campus. The employees, Joseph Henderson and Cary Shuman were treated at Princeton Medical Center and released.

Borough police report the two victims were inside a second-floor kitchenette when fire erupted shortly after 2 p.m. An oven that was left on is believed to have ignited one of the cabinets and started the blaze.

The fire was confined to a five-foot area and police report no major damage.

Residents Are Fined $215 For Container Violation

Two Princeton residents were fined $215 each for having an open container of alcohol in their cars. Kimherly I. Moyer, 6 Deer Run, was fined Monday in Borough court and Lisa J. Blumenthal, 71 Adams Drive, was fined last week in Township Court.

In other Borough fines, Elihu Ahrahams, 108 Clover Lane, paid $60 for going the wrong way on a one-way street, and William A. Rotunno, 22 Butter-nut Row, paid the same amount for a stop sign violation. Fined $20 each were Stephen R. Ensminger, 5 Pin Oak Drive, Lawrence Township, no license or registration in possession, and Ruth B. Ellis, 576 Alexander Street, a pedestrian violation - failure to cross in a crosswalk.

In two other cases in Township court, John R. Paul, 101 Library Place, was fined $65 for careless driving, and Maureen C. Kimball, 8 Laurel Wood Drive, Lawrenceville, was fined $65, for a stop sign infraction.

Twin Sons Born June 11 At Medical Center Here

Twin sons were born to Michael and Needa Nabors, 28 Green Street, on June 11. They were among 19 boys and 15 girls born at Princeton Medical Center in the week ending June 11.

Evaluations Are Scheduled At Community Park Pool

Evaluations for swimming and diving lessons will be held at Community Park Pool on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday morning, June 24, 25, 26 from 10 to 11:45 a.m.

All Princeton residents and season ticket holders are eligible to enroll their children in the program. Children must be 4 years old as of November 30, 1986. All prospective divers must be able to swim across the diving well.

Lessons for non-day camp children will be held on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday between 10:30 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. The lessons begin on June 29 and will run through August 14. There will be only one session of lessons this year. The cost for the program is $17 for the session.

Day Camp children must also be evaluated. The day camp children will have their lessons on Tuesday and Thursday and will be charged $12 for the summer session.

For additional information call 921-9480.

Scholarships to Camp Available for Youth

Space is still available for campers aged 10-13 in the July 21-30 and the August 3-14 session at the Princeton Summer Camp at Blairstown in northwestern New Jersey near the Delaware Water Gap.

The Princeton Summer Camp program is partially supported by a grant from the Princeton Youth Fund, and scholarship help is available based on need.

Helping Babies

A volunteer is needed two mornings a month to help at Princeton's Well Baby Clinic. The clinic, which provides physical exams and immunizations for pre-school-age children, meets at the Valley Road School from 9 to 11 a.m. on the first and third Thursday of each month.

Among the volunteer's responsibilities will be weighing babies, transferring information to health records, and assuming the duties of a physician's office receptionist.

For further information, or to volunteer, call 734-4626 weekdays from 2-5 p.m.

The Princeton Summer Camp is designed to give youth an adventure experience exploring the outdoors, making new friends, swimming, telling ghost stories around the evening campfire, camping out and simply having fun.

Transportation is provided to and from Blairstown for area residents.

For further information contact the Princeton Summer Camp, 3rd floor Maclean House, Princeton University, or call 452-3340.

NEW HOUSES ON JOHN STREET: Architects' plans show four three-bedroom units on the site of the John Street basketball court, between Leigh Avenue and Clay Street, and, to the right, another four units at the corner of John and Clay Streets. The houses — part of the Borough's affordable housing program — will include such features as pitched roofs, small front porches, and dormers. Designed to blend in with the character of the John-Witherspoon neighborhood, the units will have clapboard bases and shingled projections.

Housing

The eight units of affordable housing on John Street and the 16 units on Hamilton Avenue comprise the first section of the Borough's lease/purchase affordable housing program. Groundbreaking is scheduled to begin in both locations in August. The marketing effort for the entire 68-unit project, which will be conducted by Borough Housing Coordinator Beth Leder-Pack, is expected to begin next month.

The newly unveiled plans, developed by Clarke & Caton/E. Harvey Myers Architects, show four units on the basketball court on John Street, between Leigh Avenue and Clay Street, and four units across the street, on the corner of John and Clay Streets.

All those constructed on the basketball court will be three-bedroom units, with yards in back of each. The other four break down into two two-bedroom and two one-bedroom units. A total of eight parking spaces is planned.

The private meetings held last year between the Mayor, architects, members of Council, and some John Street neighbors indicated a preference for having five units on the basketball court and three across the street. It was concern at the change in mix from five and three to four and four that prompted Mayor Sigmund to schedule another meeting with the neighbors this week.

Commenting after the meeting, the Mayor said the different mix turned out not to be a problem for the neighbors because the basic mixture of unit sizes hadn't changed. However, an agreement was reached to set the buildings several feet farther back from John Street. Setbacks shown in the architects' plans measure three to four feet from the property line.

In addition to the total of 24 homes to be constructed on the Hamilton Avenue and John Street sites, the Borough plans to build 28 units on the Maclean Street parking lot, and rehabilitate and renovate 16 housing units on Shirley Court. The program, which is geared to buyer purchase of the homes at the completion of a specified lease period, will include 17 units for low-income families; 20 for moderate-income; 17 for those with incomes up to $43,224 a year; and 14 for families with incomes up to $54,000 annually. The sale of the units at the higher end of the scale will help subsidize costs for those at the lower end.

After the Planning Board meeting, at which the Borough expects to receive advisory comments, a formal public site plan meeting will be scheduled at Borough Hall. No date has yet been set for this.

Executive Secretary Bonnie Wagner Honored As She Retires from Princeton Ballet Society

Bonnie Wagner, for 21 years the quietly helpful person who kept the Princeton Ballet Society functioning smoothly, has stepped down.

The biennial Ballet School production of Alice's Adventures, performed last Saturday at McCarter Theatre, was dedicated to Mrs. Wagner, and a dinner was held in her honor on Sunday at the Ballet Society studios on Alexander Street. The dinner was attended by all segments of the Society, from founder and artistic director Audree Estey and her husband Bud, to past and present board members, faculty, staff and students.

Mrs. Wagner's husband, their three daughters, and friends from church and community were on hand to hear the tributes to her from Judith Leviton, the present Princeton Ballet Society director, and Nancy MacMillan, president of the board.

HONORED: Bonnie Wagner, left, accepts a gift from Pam Good, who organized last Sunday's dinner in honor of Mrs. Wagner's retirement from the Princeton Ballet Society.

"At some point, Audree found that I could type," Mrs. Wagner recounts, "and one thing led to another." The Ballet Society had grown to the point where it could use a paid hand, and she was hired in 1966 for five hours, five days a week.

A People Person. "It has been such fun interacting with all the people who have come through these doors — especially the children," Mrs. Wagner says. She has particularly enjoyed watching those whom she describes as "pot-bellied, sway-backed kindergarteners turn into beautiful, graceful young women."

She has high praise for Mrs. Estey, whom, she says, was "single-minded" in her dedication to the training of young dancers. "She cared about children tremendously and had great sensitivity to what was going on in a child's mind. She could create for them. She was a born teacher, and had exquisite taste."

"Bud helped her all those years. He cared about theater, and about this place. That kind of caring attracted such a wonderful group of people. I will miss the people tremendously, but luckily I just live across town."

Mrs. Wagner expects to continue her work with the Crisis Ministry, for which she is a member of the Steering Committee. Other than that she has no specific plans and regards this retirement as "one of those 'rights of passage' and an opportunity for a new beginning."

The Wagners have lived in Princeton for more than 40 years, since Arthur Wagner's days as an undergraduate and then a graduate student in chemistry at Princeton University. He is a research chemist at Merck. Early in their life here, Mrs. Wagner became active in the League of Women Voters and early efforts at consolidation of Borough and Township.

A former member and president of the Borough Board of Health, she is also a veteran of the battle over fluoridation of Princeton's drinking water. She played an active role in the struggle to merge the Borough and the Township school districts and was elected to the first regionalized school board.

Although Mrs. Wagner is relinquishing her multifaceted duties at the Princeton Ballet Society, it is unlikely that such an effective person will retire to the sidelines. The community which has benefited from her quiet caring can expect more of the same.

Folk Stories and Songs To Benefit New School

Storyteller Susan Danoff and folksinger David Brahinsky will appear together in "An Evening of Folk Story and Song" on Saturday, June 27. The performance will begin at 7:30 in the assembly room of the Princeton Friends Meeting. Coffee, tea, and desserts will be served. The benefit evening will raise funds for tuition aid for the 1987-88 school year for the new Princeton Friends School.

Ms. Danoff tells international folktales to audiences of all ages. Through the New Jersey State Council on the Arts she has worked in many public and independent schools in the Princeton area as a storyteller-in-residence, sharing stories with children and teachers, teaching children to tell stories themselves, and using stories to help children develop creative writing abilities. Ms. Danoff has performed at the Public Library and the Arts Council, appeared on radio and cable television, and taught storytelling and writing at Princeton University.

Mr. Brahinsky, a resident of Roosevelt, is a music instructor and performer of folk music. He has appeared at the coffeehouse of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, the Roosevelt Arts Project, Trenton State College, and on radio station WPRB. He also teaches philosophy and religion at Trenton State College.

Admission will be $8 for adults and $5 for children. The board of trustees of Princeton Friends School will accept donations of amounts greater than the ticket prices to supplement the 1987-88 tuition aid fund. Those who wish to reserve seats for the performance should call Betsy Whitteley at 924-5350.

Princeton Friends School will open in September with approximately 30 students, two full-time teachers and several part-time in various specialties. The school aims to provide an intellectually rigorous, spiritually nurturing learning environment for its students.

Princeton Friends School welcomes students of any religion, race, color, and national or ethnic origin. A few openings still exist, and applications are being accepted for students entering first through sixth grades. For more information or application materials, interested parents should call Jane Fremon at 924-2038, or write Princeton Friends School, P.O. Box 231, Blawenburg 08504.

Area Residents Lobby For Nuclear Test Ban

on June 9 to lobby for a comprehensive nuclear test ban. Later in the day, five of the group were arrested in a non-violent civil disobedience protest in front of the White House.

The Mercer County activists, whose trip was sponsored by the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, met with Senators Frank Lautenberg and Bill Bradley and Representatives Chris Smith and Jim Courter. Their object was to persuade the legislators to support the test ban bill recently passed by the House and scheduled to come before the Senate later this summer. The bill would establish a mutual U.S.-Soviet ban on nuclear testing, to be verified by on-site inspections and seismic monitoring.

Senator Lautenberg told the group that he has agreed to co-sponsor the Senate test ban legislation. Senator Bradley has not yet decided whether he will support the test ban. Mercer County Congressional representatives are split, with Chris Smith supporting and Jim Courter voting against the test ban.

After lobbying, many members of the group went to a rally in Lafayette Park, attended by over 1,000 people from 30 states. The rally ended with a demonstration in front of the White House, where 106 people were arrested in a civil disobedience action. They were released the same day.

Local residents arrested were Anne Bussis and JoAnne Osborn of Hopewell, Michele Graybeal of Lawrenceville, Mary Buxton Ward of Princeton and Michael Robertson of Griggstown.

New Drug and Alcohol Counselling Efforts Taking Shape in Princeton Public Schools

The building blocks that make up the Princeton Regional School District's response to drug and alcohol abuse are now beginning to fall into place. The district's full Student Assistance Program — which deals with other problems in addition to drugs and alcohol — has been developed by The Hazelden Foundation in Minnesota, and the schools will soon begin the process of adapting it to their own needs.

Building block number one is the hiring of a full-time student assistance counselor at the high school. To date, after a year-long search, the right person has not been found. But Principal John Sakala is hoping that a recent intensive search effort will prove successful, and that a counselor will be on board within a month.

As an interim measure, the school has contracted with Penny Saltzman, of the Gabrielsen Group, to be the student assistance counselor two days a week. She is a certified alcoholism counselor who has worked previously in schools.

Right now, Ms. Saltzman is running two groups, with ten students in each, and providing individual counselling to approximately ten more youngsters who have significant use problems. "She gets new referrals every day," says Mr. Sakala, "mostly kids who refer themselves."

When Ms. Saltzman first came to the school, Mr. Sakala gave her a list of some 17 students about whom the staff was seriously concerned. "Half these kids have agreed to meet with her," he said.

The original group that came to her office were upper-classmen, but now some freshmen have been coming forward. "These students are from all segments of the population, black and white, rich and poor," said Mr. Sakala. "There is no pattern in the nature of the kid who seeks help."

He noted that some students who come to Ms. Saltzman without their parents' permission are there because their parents have abuse problems, and added that alcohol is a more abused chemical than other drugs that receive a lot of press.

The high school principal echoed sentiments heard more and more at parents' meetings, where student stress is cited as a serious concern. "We need to be a humane place," he said. "We put a lot of stress on academically, and we have to be aware that some kids fall off the bandwagon and get into drugs and alcohol."

While the student assistance counselor will be at the high school, where students need direct help with substance abuse problems, the Hazelden Foundation program also addresses youngsters from kindergarten on.

Representatives from Hazelden have already made several visits to the schools. In October, a series of workshops will be held to provide staff at all levels with tools to identify and assist youngsters with problems.

Among the topics that will be dealt with during these workshops are student self-esteem, how to make classes more humane, how to encourage students to talk with teachers, and how to identify changes in students that might indicate problems. A chain of referral, beginning with the staff member who sees a problem, will be formulated and discussed at the workshops.

In addition to drug and alcohol abuse, school personnel will be asked to watch out for possible diet disorders. Here, said Mr. Sakala, is where cafeteria aides can be very helpful, since they are often the key people to spot this problem. Bus drivers, too, should be trained to be alert to shifts in behavior that could signal a problem, he said.

Pointing out that the September freshman class at the high school will be small — only 150 students — Mr. Sakala suggested the possibility that the peer leadership program might be refashioned in ways that would increase help in specific problem areas.

"The schools' program to help students with substance abuse and other problems is for everybody," said the principal. "As it begins to expand, it will also become a vehicle by which staff and employees will be able to face any problems they may have."

Physician Will Address Caregivers Conference

"Today's Caregivers ... Tomorrow's Elderly" will be the topic of a luncheon address by Dr. Gerald Blandford, medical director of Merwick and coordinator of geriatric programs at UMDNJ-Robert Wood Johnson Medical School and at Princeton Medical Center.

Dr. Blandford will speak at "The Art of Caregiving," a conference to provide information and support to those who are caring for aging parents or homebound, chronically ill family members. The conference, which is sponsored by the Princeton Area Council of Community Services, will take place Saturday from 9 to 2:30 at the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck on South Mill Road in West Windsor.

Members of the Mercer Interactive Theater will open the conference with "Scenes from the life of a caregiver," to stimulate discussion of common concerns shared by caregivers. Professionals from the Community Guidance Center of Mercer County, the Home Care Department of Princeton Medical Center, the St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center and the Princeton Senior Resource Center will present five different workshops. Topics include community resources, physical care techniques, stress management and improving coping skills. Two area medical surgical suppliers will display adaptive equipment and supplies to help the caregiver.

Registration for the conference is now underway. For further information call the Council of Community Services at 924-5865 or 799-6033.

Lifesaving Classes Available at YMCA

The YMCA is offering two American Red Cross/YMCA Advanced Lifesaving classes

during the summer session, which begins June 22.

Each course will run for three weeks, Monday through Friday, 3:30 to 5 p.m. The first class starts June 22 and ends July 10, and the second begins July 13 and ends July 31.

Students age 16 and older must be adequate swimmers (able to swim 500 yards continuously) in order to take this course. Upon successful completion of the course, swimmers receive Advanced Lifesaving (Lifeguard) certification. Books are included. Registration is available at the YMCA office.

Talk on Famed Battle Is Set Here for July 4

A 30-minute talk on the Battle of Princeton — the events leading up to it, the happenings of the day, and its significance to the Revolutionary War — will be given at the Battlefield Park flagpole at 11 a.m. on Saturday, July 4.

Speaker will be Richard W. Baker Jr., president of the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society. The public is invited to attend. Clarke House, where General Mercer died nine days after the July 3, 1777 battle, will be open to visitors.

YMCA Leaders Honored At the Annual Dinner

Ralph S. Mason II, was awarded the first Francis G. Clark Award for exceptional volunteer service and community leadership by the YMCA.

More than 150 friends, business associates and YMCA supporters gathered for the second annual Spring Dinner Dance at the Nassau Inn to honor both Mr. Mason and Francis G. Clark. Millard M. Riggs, Jr., president of the YMCA board of directors, presented Mr. Mason with the award and read a letter from Governor Kean expressing his appreciation for Mr. Mason's community contributions.

Mr. Mason accepted a plaque which read, "Ralph Mason has touched the lives of thousands by his genuine commitment and leadership to the YMCA movement locally, nationally, and internationally. We bestow this honor on a man who truly exemplifies the highest ideals of volunteer leadership."

Reeves Hicks gave a spoken tribute to Francis Clark, describing his numerous contributions to the national YMCA and especially his gifts to the Princeton community. Mr. Clark, in turn, praised Ralph Mason's fund-raising and commitment to youth through the camping experience.

Nature Walks for Adults At Watershed Reserve

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association offers opportunities to explore nature by day and by night.

The Watershed Association will conduct an Exploring the Night Program Friday, June 26. The program begins at 8:30 at the pond, where bullfrogs will be serenading. Participants will explore and learn about lightning bug communication, nocturnal mammals and their senses, the stars and owls.

On Saturday, June 27, adults are invited to join naturalist Jeff Hoagland for a nature walk on the 585-acre reserve. Mr. Hoagland will guide participants along some of the many trails on the reserve, and participants will discover some of the common flora and fauna of the forest and fields and learn about wild edibles on the Stony Brook flood plain. They will also observe birds in various stages of nesting and fledgling and visit a honeybee hive in its natural woodland habitat.

The walk starts at 9 a.m. at the Watersheds' headquarters on Titus Mill Road. Registration is required for both programs, and there is a fee. For more information, or to register, call 737-3735.

Free Tours of Airport Planned on Thursdays

In an effort to introduce the general public to the world of general aviation, Princeton Airport will offer free tours of its facility every Thursday at 10:30 during July and August.

The tour will cover all the features of the airport including explanations of various aircraft on display, discussion of traffic patterns and air safety, a look at the maintenance facilities, and a description of the services offered.

Interested members of the public should meet at the terminal. The tour will last approximately one hour. Tours are free, and all ages are encouraged to come.

For further information call 921-3100. Groups may arrange special tours.

Graphoanalysis Topic Of Rocky Hill Program

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a program on handwriting analysis, "The 'Write' Approach," with Geraldine Lewis on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Graphoanalysis is the scientific method of interpreting personality and character from handwriting. Ms. Lewis holds a certificate from the International Graphoanalysis Society, having completed a course of study in graphoanalysis.

Registration is required. The program is free and open to the public. To register and for further information, call the library at 924-7073.

to be developed for low- and moderate-income units, and half for market-rate housing. The former Peterson tract between Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road is a 12-to-the-acre RH site, but Princeton Community Housing, which is developing it for the Township under the affordable housing ordinance, voluntarily agreed to a density of 10.5 units an acre when it became apparent that 12 units would have made for more density than was desirable.

Another RH site is the land at the north end of the Shopping Center. Still another is the parcel on West Drive of which the University has said it will sell six acres to the Township for affordable housing. This site and its density are the subject of an agreement still being negotiated between the University and the Township.

Another present RH site is the vacant land behind the Butler tract off Harrison Street, on which the University proposes to build up to 60 additional apartments for graduate students. Forty-two of these units will be applied toward the Township's Mt. Laurel housing fair share if graduate student housing is allowed by the court or the Affordable Housing Council.

The proposed affordable housing ordinance amendment would also change the density on the RM (residential moderate density) sites, which are an integral part of the affordable housing program. Presently, these sites — which are large tracts located almost entirely in the western part of the Township — are zoned for 3.25 units an acre, of which 22% must be set aside for affordable housing.

In reducing the density on these sites, it is proposed that they be renamed R-1/AH (affordable housing) or R-2/AH depending on whether they were R-1 (minimum two-acre lot) or R-2 (minimum 1½-acre lot) before they were re-zoned RM in November, 1984. Ten percent of the tract would be designated RH-8 to be developed for affordable housing at eight units to the acre, one half low- and moderate-income, one half market, just like all the other RH-8 (presently RH) sites.

The rest of the site could be developed at the original underlying density — .05 units for the former R-1 sites, .67 for the former R-2 sites — plus a 25% bonus. The change effectively reduces the amount of building by approximately one third.

At the discretion of the Township, a developer could develop the land or contribute the land, or money in lieu of land, to the Township for the Township to develop through its Housing Board. If the site is clustered, which is strongly recommended, 50% of the land must be set aside in open space, and the open space must be as designated on the Township's zoning map.

Examples of RM sites that would be affected by the zoning change are the Ettl Farm, the Cadle property near Princeton Day School, the Lambert property, and the 55-acre Arcaro tract on Cherry Valley Road. The ordinance amendment also provides for a somewhat bigger density bonus to properties near educational institutions, if the property is developed for and deed restricted to employees of those institutions with incomes not in excess of 120% of the regional median income.

The Planning Board has set aside an hour on Thursday for public hearing on the proposed addition of an Historic Preser-

MacArthur Fellowship Awarded to Princeton Physicist; Township Resident to Speak Before West German Parliament

David Gross, 46, of Hartley Avenue, has received a fellowship from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation. He is a theoretical physicist, working on elementary particle physics, and Eugene Higgins Professor of Physics at Princeton University.

Awarded annually since 1981, the fellowships impose no research requirements or restrictions on recipients. Thus they have earned the nickname "no strings" fellowships. The fellows receive annual stipends of from $30,000 to $75,000, which Prof. Gross says comes unsolicited as "manna from heaven."

His selection brings to 10 the total of MacArthur Foundation fellowships bestowed on Princeton University faculty since the awards were initiated. Prof. Gross has been working on string theory and expects to continue this research.

vation Element and Plan to the Princeton Community Master Plan. The "element," written by historian Constance Greiff, includes background on the developing history of Princeton from its earliest days and its efforts to date at historic preservation.

It lists national historic landmarks, such as Nassau Hall, the Princeton Battlefield, Morven, MacLean House, Prospect, Westland, and Maybury Hill. It also lists national and New Jersey register sites and districts, such as the D&R Canal, Kingston Mill and Jugtown historic districts, and specific buildings on the Historic American Buildings Survey.

Finally, the historic preservation element lists the objectives, policies and principles of having an historic preservation element in the community master plan. Recent land use law requires such an element as the basis for municipal historic preservation review ordinances, such as the one adopted by the Borough two years ago and under discussion in the Township.

Folk Dancing Outside On Tuesday Evenings

The Princeton Folk Dance

Fritz Stern of Ober Road, who teaches history at Columbia University and is a contributing editor of Foreign Affairs, was invited to speak before the West German Parliament to help commemorate that country's National Unity Day.

The day marks the anniversary of a strike in June, 1953 by approximately 300,000 East German workers. The strike expanded into a call by some East Germans for the reunification of Germany and the liberation of that country from Soviet control. The day has become a holiday in West Germany and since the late 1970s has been marked by an address in the Bundestag, or parliament.

Prof. Stern's speech before the West German president, his Cabinet and the diplomatic corps, was expected to put the rebellion of 1953 into a 19th context, connected to certain 19th century desires for emancipation.

Group, which meets all year round, is moving outside for the summer on Tuesday.

International dancing will take place every Tuesday evening in McCosh Courtyard, next to the Princeton University Chapel, through September 8. Free instruction is from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. and request dancing from 8:30 to about 10 p.m. Beginners are welcome, and no partner is needed. Rain date is Wednesdays.

For more information, call 683-9071 or (201) 359-0853.

Family Film Series Set At Rocky Hill Library

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present Indian Paint, the first in a series of summer evening family films, on Thursday, June 25, at 7:30 p.m.

This program is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

Reunion Luncheon Set For PHS Class of 1932

Members of the Princeton High School Class of 1932 will hold a reunion luncheon Sunday to celebrate the 55th anniversary of their graduation. The event will be held between 1 and 5 p.m. in the Morven Room, Ramada Inn, Route 1.

Key Positions Unfilled

The Recreation Department still has a few key positions to fill for upcoming summer programs.

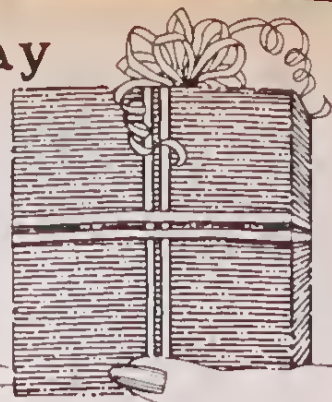

A qualified person is sought to serve as the director of the Summer Sounds free outdoor community concerts. Duties include auditioning musical groups, organizing, scheduling, supervising and promoting the concerts.

At the Community Pool complex, an instructor is needed for the Saturday morning Splashercise program for senior citizens. Also, applications are being accepted for weekend staff interested in working in the front office of the pool complex as well as for the tennis attendant positions for which a flexible work schedule is offered throughout the week.

Stop by the Recreation Office at 380 Witherspoon Street, or call 921-9480 for additional information.

Toto's Market Has Closed After 75 Years Operation

Three months after a feature appeared in the March 11 issue of TOWN TOPICS about Toto's Market celebrating its 75th Anniversary, one of the few family-owned businesses in Princeton to reach that milestone, Albert Toto Jr. announced that the store would close its doors on June 16.

Why the change? "A number of reasons," replied Mr. Toto. One is a desire to devote more time to other areas such as investments and real estate that he had been dabbling in the last few years. Another is he wants his parents to retire "and they won't unless I get out of here."

"More than anything else," he added, "it was just time for a change in my life. I've been doing this for half my life. My parents have been doing it longer than that; it's time to enjoy some of the fruits of our labors."

"One of my original goals was to be able to pick and choose where I wanted to work and what I wanted to do at age 50," continued the younger Mr. Toto, who will turn 40 in August. "I'll be able to do it sooner."

His father, Albert Sr., has worked 60 of his 73 years at the store founded in 1912 by his parents, Lucy and Flory Toto. Albert's mother, Ida, has worked there 49 years and remains as spry and effervescent as ever. The thought of closing makes her eyes glisten with tears.

The store closed on Tuesday for renovations for the new occupant, The Brass Horn, a store offering brass hardware and giftware items. Owner Willem van der Wilden, who first walked into Toto's Market on Communiiversity Day, has a five-year lease on the 1,100 square foot market and a five-year renewable option. Mr. van der Wilden, who also operates a brass store in Fair Haven, hopes to open here on September 1.

The Frame Shop, located in the same building next door, and apartments upstairs will remain.

Eight Homes Planned On 'Landfall' Acreage

Design Interface has received preliminary and final subdivision approval from Lawrence Township to build eight, single-family homes on the 22-acre Landfall estate on Route 206.

Design Interface, the real estate development and construction management subsidiary of The Hillier Group, purchased the property in September, 1986 at public auction.

The development will preserve the great lawn and existing driveway, and the new homes, to be custom-designed by The Hillier Group, will be positioned behind the current tree line on two-acre lots. Design Interface has already sold the historic manor house, with six acres, to a private buyer.

The new homes will be offered in the $800,000-$1,200,000 range.

Three Lots Are Available At the Kingsbrook Estates

Three lots are still available, at pre-opening prices, at Kingsbrook Country Estates, a 86-home community on Cold Soil Road in Lawrenceville.

Kingsbrook is a project of Trafalgar House Residential, Inc., the United States development arm of the Trafalgar House Group, a London-based multinational conglomerate.

Three two-story models and one ranch are being offered, providing up to 3,237 square feet of living space. Prices range from the mid-$300,000's.

Richard S. Roffis of Laidlaw Adams & Peck, Inc., Princeton, has been elected to the Nuveen Advisory Council of John Nuveen & Co., Incorporated, the investment banking firm.

The Council is composed of a select group of investment professionals across the country who are cited "for continuing excellence in financial counseling in the field of tax-exempt securities."

Joseph Tabak has been elected to the corporate board of directors of United Jersey Banks. He is president of Bunzl Distribution USA, Eastern Division, and director of Bunzl Corporation and Bunzl Distribution USA.

Samuel M. Glasgow, has been appointed general manager of Scanticon-Princeton. During 1986, he was nominated as one of the outstanding conference services executives of the year by Successful Meetings Magazine.

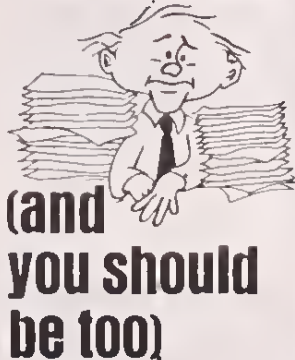

Prior to joining Scanticon, Mr. Glasgow was the director of sales and marketing for the Great Gorge Resort Hotel and Country Club.

Mary Kay Milot and Simon Hankinson, both of Princeton, and Jeff Dunham, of Blawenburg, have recently been certified as instructors of the Boardsailing Instructors' Group, Sailboard School System. They will teach through the school at Princeton Aqua Sports.

Edmund Conaway has been appointed president of Princeton Testing Laboratory. William Pickup, founder and president of the firm, has assumed the position of chairman of the board.

Jeffrey L. Shanaberger, an attorney with Brener Wallack & Hill, Carnegie Center, was the guest speaker at an alcohol awareness seminar conducted by Mercer County Community College. The seminar was designed to educate liquor licensees to the legal and economic ramifications of serving intoxicated persons, and to identify workable strategies to avoid liability.

decision. He also found the "un-constitutional" argument "no longer relevant," Mr. Billmeier said, because in the spring of 1986 Hopewell Township had amended its zoning ordinance so that office research centers are no longer permitted in any residential zone, no matter what the acreage.

The judge also pointed out that there are 15 other tracts of 100 acres or more in Hopewell Township affected by this change, so that the zoning amendment could not have been directed specifically against S.T. Peterson, and thus was not discriminatory.

According to Mr. Billmeier, the company can appeal Judge Levy's decision to the appellate court within 45 days. Alternatively, it could develop the property as a residential subdivision for single-family homes. The 45 acres in the Hopewell portion of the tract require a two-acre minimum lot size, while the 40 acres in Lawrence Township are zoned at a three-acre minimum. Thus some 38 single-family homes could be built on the 85-acre tract.

Mr. Billmeier said that the case is one of the oldest land use appeals in Mercer County, dating back to 1980. S.T. Peterson purchased the tract in the late 1970s and sought initially to develop it for single-family homes. The application for 40-42 homes was rejected because of the lack of sewers and concern over groundwater supplies.

An application for two office buildings totalling 240,000 square feet was bounced over the years from Hopewell to Lawrenceville and back to Hopewell, from the Hopewell Planning Board to the Zoning Board and in and out of court. The company reduced its proposal to a single 165,000-square-foot building and promised to install all sorts of water-saving and recycling measures in hopes of winning approval. It also offered to undertake and pay for certain traffic improvements at nearby intersections.

Neighbors were not mollified by these proposals and formed the Carter-Elm Ridge Defense Fund to retain an attorney and expert witnesses to counter the testimony of S.T. Peterson witnesses. Lawrence Township was similarly organized in opposition to the proposal. The building itself would have been located in the Hopewell part of the property, with parking and drainage in Lawrence.

A major concern to the neighbors was the inability to pin S.T. Peterson down to single-tenant occupancy of the building. There is a similar concern today on the part of Carter Road residents about multi-use of four new office buildings totalling in excess of 400,000 square feet proposed by Educational Testing Service. The Carter Road neighbors are also concerned about traffic.

The ETS application has been informally presented to the Lawrence Township Planning Board, which then agreed to hire its own traffic consultant to make a study of the traffic impacts. Further hearings on the ETS application have been postponed pending the receipt of the traffic consultant's report.

OBITUARIES

Laura Hummel Guinter, a pioneering missionary with her husband for 20 years in British West Africa, died June 14 at the home of her daughter. She would have been 105 years old in August and had lived in Princeton since 1968.

Mrs. Guinter was born August 14, 1882, in Kratzerville, Pa., the daughter of a druggist from whom she learned herbal and pharmaceutical remedies which were to stand her in good stead in Africa. She enrolled in Central Pennsylvania College in nearby Berlin, then transferred to Bucknell University, graduating with a B.S. degree magna cum laude in the class of 1905.

Engaged for nine years to a fellow student at Bucknell, she was finally married to the Rev. Clarence W. Guinter in 1909 after he had completed seminary school and an initial term as a missionary to Northern Nigeria. Setting out as a bride for Africa, to an area where the natives had never seen a Western woman, she accompanied him for the next 20 years of pioneer work under the British Board of the Sudan United Mission.

Together they dug wells, raised their food, demonstrated farming methods and good hygiene and treated the sick. They learned the language, reduced it to writing, translated the Gospel, produced their own text books, and taught school. Eventually they learned three languages.

Mrs. Guinter worked with the women and ran a dispensary. Life was primitive, and so was their mode of travel from village to village. A natural storyteller, as well as a woman of deep faith, she later enjoyed telling tales of close calls with lions and of waking to find leopard tracks through the house.

Her husband's illness forced them to return to the United States in 1929. Mr. Guinter served pastorates in Pennsylvania until his death in 1941. Mrs. Guinter moved to New York City and continued in church and missionary work. She served as Sunday School visitor for the Calvary Presbyterian Church of Maspeth and on the board of examiners of the Sudan United Mission.

In the 1950's, the Guinter Memorial Hospital for 110 patients was opened in Bambar on the site they had chosen decades before. It was later renamed the Regional Hospital of the State of Gongola.

Mrs. Guinter is survived by a son, John M. Guinter of Dayton, Ohio; a daughter, Ruth G. Jurji of Princeton; two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

A memorial service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 1 at Princeton United Methodist Church. Burial was in Montoursville, Pa. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the United Methodist Church for rural health work in Nigeria.

Edward C. Rose Jr., 67, of Allison Road, died June 16 at home of cancer.

Born in Trenton, Mr. Rose was a graduate of the Lawrenceville School and Princeton University, Class of 1942. During World War II he served as a major in the 13th Armored Division of the U.S. Army. Following his discharge, he joined the New Jersey National Guard and was a retired colonel at the time of his death.

From 1954-1972, Mr. Rose worked for New York Life Insurance Co. in New York City, rising to vice president. For the next three years he was a vice president with C.I.T. Financial Corporation of New York, and from 1977-1985 he was a senior vice president with Lincoln Savings Bank of New York.

He was a member of Bedens Brook Club.

Surviving are his wife, Ann Tomlinson Rose; two daughters, Barbara R. Hare of Princeton and Hope R. Angier of Alna, Maine; three stepdaughters, Gabriella Finnell Eggers of Princeton; Rebecca Finnell Vuilleumier of Nyack, N.Y., and Ann T. Finnell of New York City; a stepson, Samuel C. Finnell III of Locust Valley, N.Y.; two sisters, Jane R. Dow and Jacqueline R. Sidford of Charlottesville, Va.; three grandchildren and six step-grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held Friday at 3 at Trinity Church, the Rev. Jean Smith officiating. In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the Edward C. Rose Jr. Memorial Fund, Lawrenceville School, Lawrenceville 08648.

Frances Sinclair Salmon, 70, a former Princeton resident, died June 5 in Jacksonville, Fla., after a long illness.

Daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Donald Sinclair, she grew up in Princeton and attended Miss Fine's School. She married Hamilton H. Salmon III, a graduate of Princeton University, Class of 1941, and moved to Garden City, Long Island, later retiring to Lake Placid, N.Y., and Ponte Vedra, Fla.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by four daughters, eight grandchildren and three sisters, Alice Schwartz of Charleston, S.C., Doris McAnerney of Hnpkinton, N.H., and Elizabeth Flemer of Princeton.

Mary H. Anderson, 86, died June 15 at Princeton Medical Center. She was a lifelong Princeton resident and had been employed for 25 years at Palmer Laboratory, Princeton University, before retiring in 1966.

Mrs. Anderson was a member of St. Paul's Church, the Altar and Rosary Society and the Golden Agers at the church.

Wife of the late Charles J. Anderson Sr., she is survived by two daughters, Mary Elizabeth Bodine of Princeton and Patricia A. Tozzer of San Clemente, Calif.; a son, Charles J. Anderson Jr. of Rumson; seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was scheduled to be celebrated this Wednesday at 9 a.m. at St. Paul's Church. Burial will be in the parish cemetery under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

William S. Detwiler Jr., 68, died June 9 at his home. He was employed as purchasing manager at RCA Astro Division in Hightstown until his retirement in 1973.

Born in Philadelphia, Mr. Detwiler was a graduate of the Hun School and Princeton University, Class of 1942, from which he received an A.B. degree in philosophy. During World War II he served in the U.S. Army and was a captain at the time of his discharge. He began his career with RCA in Camden in 1953 and was later instrumental in the formation of the RCA Astro Division.

He was a member of the board of the Mercer Council on Alcoholism from 1981 to the time of his death. He was also active in his class reunions at Princeton.

Surviving are his wife, Jane Stockton Detwiler; two daughters, Katharine K. Detwiler of Princeton and Noel Detwiler of Charlottesville, Va.; a stepson, Thomas S. Rowe of East Charleston, Vt.; two brothers, Richard M. Detwiler of Nelvin Village, N.H., and Daniel H. Detwiler of Lancaster, Pa.; a sister, Emily D. Uhl of Pelham Manor, N.Y.; and two step-grandchildren.

Burial was private. Memorial contributions may be made to the Mercer Council on Alcoholism, 408 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton 08618.

Margaret Wuest, 93, died June 13 in Princeton Nursing Home.

Born in Boston, Mrs. Wuest was a laboratory assistant at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research from 1935 until the Princeton division on Route 1 was closed in the early 1950's. She was recognized by the U.S. National Defense Research Committee for work that was funded in part by the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

Wife of the late Nicholas Wuest, who died in 1934, she is survived by a son, Francis Wuest of Pompano Beach, Fla.; a daughter, Anne E. Goeke of Princeton; five grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated at St. Paul's Church with burial in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton Nursing Home, Quarry Street, or to the Ladies Auxiliary of the Princeton First Aid & Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

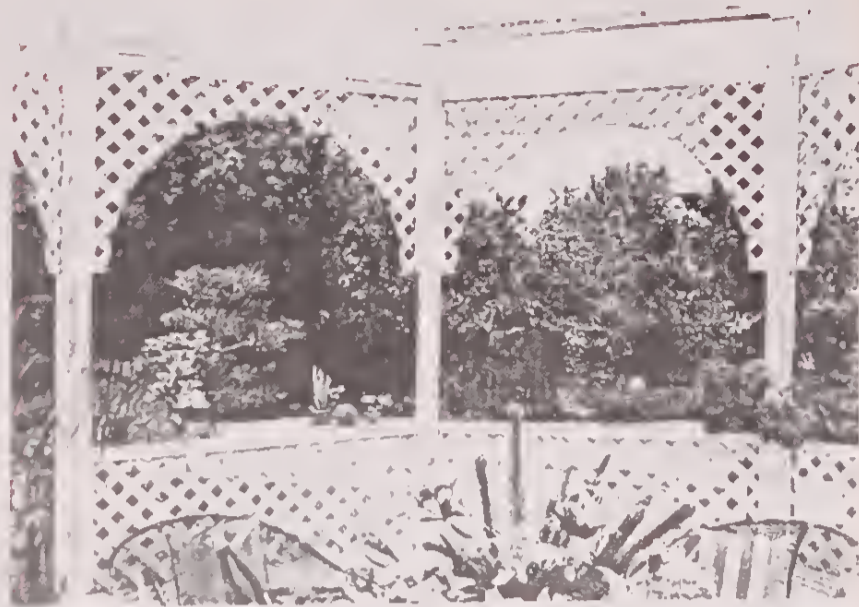

Memorial Scheduled For Former ETS Head

A memorial service for William W. Turnbull, who died May 21, will be held at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 28, at the Henry Chauncey Conference Center on the grounds of Educational Testing Service.

Dr. Turnbull, who had served from 1970 to 1981 as the second president of ETS, was Distinguished Scholar in Residence with the organization at the time of his death.

Bulletin Notes

The Right Rev. Vincent K. Pettit, Bishop of New Jersey, will make his yearly visit to All Saints' Episcopal Church on Sunday at 10 a.m. He will preach and celebrate the Holy Eucharist, and will confirm and receive new members into the church. Following the service, there will be a reception in his honor in the newly-dedicated Butler Courtyard.

The Rev. Tom Skinner, president of Tom Skinner Associates, New York, will be the guest preacher Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship service at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church. He will preach on the theme "The Family: Branches Rooted in Faith and Love," and there will be a collage on Princeton families on view and a book display by the Lamp-lighter Book Store.

All are invited

Carolyn Williams, organist and choir director of the First Baptist Church of Marion, Ind., will present an evening of contemporary Christian music Sunday, June 21, at 7 at the Montgomery Evangelical Free Church in Belle Mead. The concert will include various styles of music from ballads to hymns, from traditional to contemporary.

Miss Williams frequently ministers in the midwest with vocal music and testimony. The church is located on Griggstown and Willow Roads in Belle Mead. For information call 874-4634.

The Rev. Kenyon J. Wildrick, senior minister of the Community Congregational Church of Short Hills, will preach Sunday at 10 at the Princeton University Chapel. His topic will be "What Do You Have in Your Hand?"

Dr. Wildrick is an alumnus of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and Princeton Theological Seminary. He has served the Short Hills congregation for 27 years and is a leader on many committees of the United Church of Christ. He is also a trustee of the Center of Theological Inquiry in Princeton.

Four members of the choir of Trinity Church have been invited to sing before Queen Elizabeth in the Royal Albert Hall, London, England, this month.

The occasion will be a festival service to celebrate the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Royal School of Church Music, a worldwide organization dedicated to giving practical help to churches and cathedrals everywhere. The service will be led by a choir of 800 singers; 700 of them will come from cathedral and church choirs in Great Britain, but the remaining 100 have been chosen from choirs from the rest of the world — and Trinity Church will be sending four of these singers.

The singers who have been chosen from Trinity choirs are, William Georgantas (head boy), Susan Georgantas (head girl), Shirley Kinsley, representing the adult choir and Mr. Bradford Findell, representing the men's choir.

LIGHT HORSE HILL FARM - HOPEWELL

For well over 200 years, this lovely farm has nestled peacefully in the gentle hills of Hopewell. Disturbed briefly during the chaos of the Revolution by a visit from "Light Horse" Harry Lee, it earned a place in the history of the area. Fenced meadows, timbered barns and spring house shelter the pool, terraces, gardens and house. A sensitive addition blends with the original residence and the integrity of the architectural details have been completely preserved. Two living rooms, distinguished by carved mantels, dining with walk-in fireplace, study, five bedrooms with two additional fireplaces, kitchen, and 2 full plus 2 half baths complete the interior. All on 9.2 acres.

STUART ROAD

The unique design of this handsome contemporary in western Princeton, near the Stuart School, Princeton Day School and also Tenacre, makes it of special interest. A separate entrance opens to a spacious and gracious one bedroom apartment. The main house has three bedrooms and two and one-half baths, all overlooking 2 acres of picturesque evergreens, flowering shrubs and a brook.

$650,000

ASPEN DRIVE

A condo — the perfect answer for many today. For busy people who don't have time for numerous household chores. For a young couple needing affordable housing. For retirees who no longer need a large home. This attractive unit has the luxury of having a bath for each of the two bedrooms and a fireplace in the living room. Swimming pool and tennis court.

$115,900

DEER RUN ROAD

"Province Hill" — winding roads, emerald green lawns enhanced by beautiful landscaping around; distinctive contemporary homes make this location in nearby Lawrence Township one of the most desirable in the Princeton area. In this attractive 3 bedroom house, with its natural wood siding of weathered grey, double doors open to a foyer of Travertine marble which promises an interior of sophisticated elegance.

$485,000

LAFAYETTE STREET

"Charming" — by definition — delightful, alluring, captivating — a perfect description of this Victorian on a quaint street in Hopewell. The sparkling white picket fence and exterior, with its peaked roof, give promise of a special interior which is more than fulfilled. Gracious living areas, four bedrooms, large deck overlooking Sylvan pool.

$275,000

GREENLAND COURT

Russell Estates — in exclusive Edgerstoune. Eighty-five beautiful acres of rolling land, with its natural beauty preserved, is now shared by fortunate new home owners. Nine cul-de-sacs leave almost half the acreage as open space. This house of "weathered" grey cedar offers gracious living areas with full bath on first floor. Three bedrooms and 2 baths on second.

$567,000

PARKSIDE DRIVE

This exciting contemporary, high on a hillside in western Princeton, is completely secluded by a long driveway and a profusion of trees and shrubs. An iron gate opens to a walled court with circular brick terrace beyond. The generous use of glass throughout the house and spectacular garden room brings the outside beauty in and creates light bright rooms.

'Morning's at Seven' Is a Very Funny Farce Now on the Stage at Rider's Studio Theatre

When the lights come up on the scene of Paul Osborn's Morning's at Seven in the current Stage One production at Rider College, there's a bustle in the family of the former Gibbs sisters: Ida's son, 40-year-old Homer, is about to bring home his "girl," 39-year-old Myrtle, to meet her potential in-laws for the first time.

As two of the sisters discuss the upcoming event, the audience learns that Homer and Myrtle have been engaged for seven years — and of course, they went together for four or five years before that. But Homer, as he later informs his mother, hasn't made up his mind about anything yet.

Homer (played by Andros Thomson) and Myrtle (Mari Bernhagen) are marvelous in this period comedy. Homer's tidy little face — with a neat nose, prim mouth and slightly worried brows — conveys a precise, fussy personality almost equal parts stubbornness and suggestibility; but his earnestness is always likable, and his smile is appealing. The actor's timing and delivery are sharp and funny, and well-matched by those of his leading lady.

Myrtle, wide-eyed and almost painfully affable in the first act, is sweet and eager. When Homer tells his mother, "She's awfully good-hearted and she does nice little things for you all the time," it's easy to believe. When in the last scenes Myrtle's core of steel shows through, it's easy to believe in that too — how else could she have kept her patience with Homer all those years?

The working out of Homer and Myrtle's relationship is entangled with the resolution of the relationships between other members of the cast, which includes four Gibbs sisters and three husbands, in addition to Homer and Myrtle. Six of these cast members live in two adjacent houses, where the play takes place. In Tbyrle Prather's handsome set of "two back yards in an American mid-western town," the back porch of the Bolton household (where Homer, Ida and her husband Carl live) is a mirror image of the back porch of the Swanson household, where Cora (Petie Duncan) and her husband Theodore live with the unmarried aunt, Aaronetta. Besides the on-again, off-again engagement of Homer and Myrtle, a second central issue in the play is the nature of the threesome in the Swanson household. First intimated with fine subtlety by Cynthia Lake as Aaronetta and Herbert McAneny as Theodore, and later made explicit, is the question of the relationship between Aaronetta and Theodore during the 40 years they have lived in the same house. Lake manages to give poignancy to the character of the aging aunt with no home of her own, while maintaining a light touch suitable to a play that is basically farcical.

HESITANT COUPLE: Andros Thomson and Mari Bernhagen contemplate their next move in Stage One Production's presentation of Paul Osborn's "Morning's at Seven." Performances are at the Studio Theatre on the Rider College campus Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays at 8, and on Sundays at 3 through June 28.

Commentary by Parents. Commentary on all the relationships, and on life in general, is provided by the Bolton parents. Ida (Bernice Hicks) embodies everybody's notion of the kind of mother associated with apple pie in the American ideal: pillowy in shape, she wears aprons and sensible shoes, and a pretty, nonsensical ribbon around her hair, which is knotted in a bun at the back. Though she wants to preserve Homer from desolation as a "lonely old bachelor," when they talk of his life as a married man, she bursts into tears at the thought that another woman will take over the job of buying his underwear.

Homer's father, Carl, is a homespun philosopher manque — he wants to grapple with significant issues, but can never get beyond the questions: "I'm 62 years old, and where am I? I'm not at the place in life I should be," he frets, and longs to "get back to the fork" where he "took a wrong turn." Richard O. Swain, who plays Carl, portrays his frustration and bewilderment with a wonderfully ridiculous scrunched-up, squinting expression (though the slump and shuffle in his walk seemed to me to be overkill).

Esther (June Connerton) is the fourth sister in the Gibbs quartet. She married a university professor and moved uptown. Now retired, the professor (played by Ed Stout) is mortified by his wife's plain-folks relations. (Explains Homer, "David's a highly educated man; he doesn't like us.") "Why not?" asks Myrtle. "He thinks we're morons." Despite David's prohibition, Esther asserts her independence by coming to visit her family. When her husband follows her, he turns out to be as kooky as the rest of them.

The play is funny, and the fun revolves around the surprises of plot development, so I won't tell any more about the plot.

The first act, however, is slow — there's an awful lot of chat in it, not only setting up the various situations but also establishing the characters as what I (more tactful than David) describe as "plain folks." (For instance, a number of sequences occur when characters repeat each other's words for comic effect. "It's a nice back yard," Myrtle comments; "yes," agrees Ida, "it's a nice back yard" Only one or two such sequences are needed to make the point; after that, the joke is old, and the rest of the sequences using that gimmick could be cut.)

The second act, though it runs as long as the first, is much faster and much funnier. The night I saw the play, the capacity audience in the approximately 100-seat theater really howled at some of the surprises toward the end. So did I.

On the whole, the acting was good and the performances remarkably even. The direction, by Stage One's artistic director Nick Procaccino, was clever; even the many entrances and exits of nine people on a small stage seemed easy and natural.

My one serious cavil with the production was the language. Set in 1922, the play was written in 1939, and there remains about it a tantalizing flavor of Noel Coward, though the context is strictly U.S.A. But the language seemed to me to lack authenticity, reflecting neither 1922 (I know they didn't call movies "movies" in 1922) nor 1939. Perhaps it was updated for the 1980 Broadway run when it garnered three Tonies. If so, too bad. More period language (like Myrtle's frequent introductory phrase "Well, I just guess ..." and Homer's "I'm awfully fond of her") would have given a truer ring to the whole. The costumes, too, were low-budget to the point of anachronism.

Morning's at Seven will run Thursdays through Sunday afternoons through June 28 at the Studio Theatre in the Fine Arts Building, Rider College. For information or ticket reservations, call 683-0444.

Trenton under a grant from the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission and The New Jersey State Council on The Arts. The company is returning for its 18th season at The Open Air Theatre. The production will be taped for cable television and also be made available to Mercer County School.

Macbeth is under the direction of John F. Erath, professor of Renaissance and Restoration Drama at Trenton State College. He is co-producer of the production with Gerald E. Guarnieri, company founder and chairman of The Trenton Arts Commission. The stage managers are Wendy Rod and Fran Capuccio.

The production stars Steve Kazakoff and Wendy Yazujian as Macbeth and his plotting lady. John Anastasio plays the ill-fated Banquo and Tom Moffit is Macbeth's companion Macduff.

The three witches are played by Susan Tapper, Celeste Bonfante and Celeste Montgomery. Lee Harrod is featured as Duncan, King of Scotland. Tom Curbishley plays Ross, David Geisler is Lennox and Ed Watkinson is Angus.

Also in the cast are Howard Goldstein, Tom Ennis, Gregory Mosel, Frank Bridgewater, Charles Theobald, Steven Nelson, Christine Ennis and Seth Novick.

The musical ensemble is under the direction of James Jarvie and the music will include a special appearance by Jim Coldren, piper of The Governor's Own 1st Highland Watch of Pennsylvania. The fight choreographer is Steve Kazakoff and the masks were designed by James Colovita. The Armorer is Robert Bittner.

The set has been designed and constructed by John F. Erath II, son of the director who is also appearing as Malcolm.

Subscriptions Available For McCarter Events

Subscriptions are available for McCarter Theatre's 1987-88 season of professional drama, dance, music, children's events and special events. Tickets to single events will be available September 8.

The drama season will open September 23 with a contemporary American work, The Middle Ages, by A.R. Gurney, author of The Dining Room. The action takes place in the trophy room of a men's club in a large city over a span of time from the mid-40's to the early '70's. With humor and imagination, Mr. Gurney examines his favorite theme: the decline of the WASP.

The director Liviu Ciulei, who directed Kevin Kline as Hamlet at the New York Public Theater, will stage Shakespeare's Coriolanus at McCarter, November 4 to 22. Mr. Ciulei's guest directorship has been funded by the AT&T Foundation. Coriolanus is a tragedy of power, politics and war played against the intimate relationship of a mother and son.

The drama series continues with Garson Kanin's Born Yesterday and concludes with Eugene O'Neill's Long Day's Journey into Night. In between there will be the world premiere of a new play, title and playwright to be announced. Subscriptions to the drama series are available from $60 and up for new subscribers, and $55 for students, seniors and educators.

Dance Season. The 1987-88 dance series will present performances by four of America's leading dance companies: The Feld Ballet, Dance Theatre of Harlem, Pilobolus and the Mark Morris Dance Group. Subscriptions start at $64 for new subscribers and $60 for students and seniors.

Music Series. Music-at-McCarter is split into two series, "A" and "B," for which there are a limited number of subscription seats available. Series A includes Moscow Virtuosi, Vladimir Spivakov, conductor and violinist; Christopher Parkening, guitar; a duo recital with Shlomo Mintz, violin, and Yefim Bronfman.

Generation Gap Focus Of New Offbeat Comedy

David Babcock's offbeat comedy Hippies from Hell opens Thursday at Levin Theater, Rutgers University. The bizarre plot involves a middle-aged couple from New Jersey meeting a present-day hippie couple in the 14th Street PATH Station.

Hippies from Hell is the first of three new plays to be produced by the Levin Theater Company this summer as part of the premiere season of Rutgers SummerFest, a festival of music, dance and drama beginning this week and running through August 9. Mr. Babcock's first full-length play, Hippies from Hell was awarded runner-up in the new play competition at Theater Memphis.

Mr. Babcock, a resident of Hoboken, has written for Jim Henson's Muppets and the comedy team of Stiller and Meara. He has also appeared with and written for a comedy troupe that performed on the David Letterman show and Off Broadway. His other writing credits include two short plays and a screenplay for Blackwood Films called Over There.

Directing Hippies is Kristine Holtvedt, who holds a master of fine arts degree from Rutgers' Mason Gross School of the Arts. The cast includes Rita Bascari, Clement Fowler, Brian Dykstra and Elizabeth Rothan.

The play opens Thursday at 8 and continues through June 28, except for Monday, June 22, when the theater will be dark.

Roberta's offers eclectic, elegant cuisine

(Reprint from The News Tribune, Woodbridge, N.J. — Friday, May 8, 1987 — Dining Out)

By MARC B. LEAVITT

Every now and then a restaurant defies easy description.

This is true in a day when ethnic food has come to the fore on all fronts, from the spicy fire of Thai cooking, to the variety of Spanish and Italian and the subtlety of French and Chinese cuisines.

Roberta's Restaurant, located in the old Princeton Shopping Center on upper Harrison Street in Princeton, is such a restaurant.

The restaurant is the creation of its namesake, Roberta Churchill, who, when asked how she came to be a restaurateur, said "I always seemed to be cooking, so finally I decided, why not open a restaurant?"

The restaurant has a modest exterior, but inside, the decor reflects the food philosophy of its owner, understated and eclectic. Cool white and bold black colors, and here and there on the wall a Navajo blanket or a Finnish tapestry, add to the simple concept.

Roberta's does not have a liquor license, but guests are encouraged to bring their own wine, which the restaurant's courteous staff will serve.

Classical music plays quietly as a backdrop to the dining experience, and on Sunday nights, a classical guitarist performs.

On a first night, for an appetizer I ordered sauteed French garlic sausage with fresh pineapple salsa ($6.95).

The concept of combining the peppery, garlicky taste of the fine sausage patties with the sweet and tart pineapple salsa was intriguing, and the dish turned out to be very pleasing; just enough to whet the appetite for the main course.

My companion chose Hunan garlic lamb cups ($7.95) which I sampled, and liked so much, that I ordered it on a second visit. The dish consists of ground lamb, seasoned, and served in a "cup" made of wonton skins which are opened and deep-fried for about 30 seconds; the dish has a fiery quality, but one that does not overpower.

Roberta's main courses on the first visit consisted of roasted duck with peppery fresh pineapple sauce and wild rice ($19.95), and veal tenderloin strips in creamy curried sauce, with curry garnishes and basmati rice ($20.95).

The roasted duck is cleaned and the interior is rubbed with a combination of spices. Then it is dried in a wok for three days to decrease the fat content, marinated in oriental seasonings, cut and boned and roasted very quickly. The result is a supremely flavorful, moist and tender portion, unlike the dry overcooked duck one often encounters in some restaurants.

The veal tenderloin, according to Roberta, "was taken from a recipe created by the Swiss Chef, Freddy Girardet, and then added to by me."

What she did was to reduce the amount of curry, and cook a reduction of vermouth with shallots, a little cream, and touch of lemon and salt and pepper. The veal is then tossed in the reduction sauce and served with the flavorful basmati rice which is imported from Indonesia.

The resultant dish, served with a not-too-sweet chutney, is a delicious example of a curried dish that does not overpower the palate.

Desserts at Roberta's are as varied as the main courses and appetizers. On the first visit, we sampled a Grand Marnier souffle ($4.95) and a chocolate concoction shaped like an Easter egg, which was filled with a raspberry Bavarian cream ($4.75). Both were light and delicious.

There is street-level access to the restaurant. There are two uni-sex restrooms. There is no no-smoking section. The restaurant seats 50 people, and as soon as the weather warrants, there is seating for an additional 40 in the outside walled garden area.

Our reviewers rate each restaurant with stars: one star, good; two stars, very good; three stars, excellent; and four stars, outstanding.

In addition to the desserts, and as a necessary complement, Roberta's serves Colombian coffee ($1.95) and espresso ($2.40), as well as assorted teas in both regular and decaffeinated forms.

The regular menu continues to change throughout the year, but as one item goes off the menu, it is replaced with another, so that the knowledgeable staff will have time to become familiar with each new dish.

On a second visit to the restaurant, my companion chose Martinique fritters (Accras) with fresh tartar sauce ($7.95).

The dish is one she learned of in Martinique and Jamaica, and consists of salt cod, seasoned, and deep fried very quickly. The result was a light, non-greasy opener, which had a pleasing and somewhat peppery flavor.

As a main course, my companion chose charred shrimp, red ginger, barbecue sauce, with steamed broccoli with ginger ($17.95).

She reported that the butterfly shrimp were flavorful, and that the ginger, which was blanched, added a piquancy to the dish.

I had blackened filet of beef and chile con queso sauce, with Hoppin' John salad ($20.95).

The steak was a tender medallion of beef which Roberta sears in a white-hot cast-iron frying pan, cooking it very quickly so that in searing the meat, the tender interior of the filet will retain its juices. The Hoppin' John salad is a southern dish which combines the basmati rice and black-eyed peas in a seasoned sauce.

The chile con queso was an interesting addition to the steak, consisting of a not too spicy chile pepper and a somewhat pungent cheese sauce.

Dessert at the second meal consisted of a wickedly-rich almost fudgelike chocolate cake from the dessert cart with a dollop of fresh whipped cream.

All in all, this eclectic American restaurant, which draws from many cuisines, is a real treasure, one well worth the price.

Festival Announces Cast For Barber of Seville

The June Opera Festival has announced the cast for this summer's production of Rossini's comic opera The Barber of Seville. Michael Pratt, artistic director and co-founder of the Festival, will conduct an orchestra of members from the New Jersey Symphony, and Chris Mattaliano will direct.

Sung in an English translation by Tom Hammond of the English Opera, the opera will be presented at 8 on June 19, 23 and 27, with a special Father's Day matinee June 21 at 3. The Barber of Seville will play in repertory with a production of Richard Strauss's Ariadne on Naxos, to be presented on June 16, 20 and 26.

On June 25, the Festival will present a concert of "Dramatic Scenes for Solo Voice." All performances take place in the air-conditioned theater of the Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School.

Robert Swenson, Tamino in the Festival's 1986 production of Mozart's The Magic Flute, will play Count Almaviva, the dashing lover whose quick wit earns him the heart and hand of the enchanting Rosina. Candice Burrows will play the fair Rosina, kept under the watchful eye of her guardian Dr. Bartolo. Ms. Burrows sang the title role performance in the Festival's production last year of Rossini's Cinderella.

Dr. Bartolo, who has his own designs for marrying Rosina, will be played by Peter Volpe. Making his debut with the June Opera Festival, Mr. Volpe has worked with the San Francisco Opera's Western Opera Theater and recently sang in the New Jersey State Opera's production of La Traviata. In the role of Basilio, Dr. Bartolo's accomplice and Rosina's music teacher, will be Angeln Vecchia, 1985 winner of a full scholarship to the Juilliard School's American Opera Center in New York.

The real play maker in this comic opera of intrigue and disguise is Figaro the barber, to be sung by Todd Thomas. Mr. Thomas has performed with Chautauqua Opera Company and the Opera Company of Philadelphia.

Genie Grunewald will portray Berta, Dr. Bartolo's ser-

FOR OPERA BUFFS: The June Opera Festival is in full swing at the Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School. Todd Thomas, left, sings the role of Figaro, and Robert Swenson the role of Count Almaviva in Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," which will open on Friday and be presented again Sunday at 2 and on June 23 and 27 at 8. Performances are in the Kirby Arts Center, the Lawrenceville School.

vant. Ms. Grunewald appeared last year in The Magic Flute and will sing the solist role in the Festival's concert performance of Haydn's Ariadne on Naxos. Tom Pedersen, who sang last year in Cinderella, will perform the role of Fiorello, Count Almaviva's servant.

Ticket prices for The Barber of Seville are $35, $28, $21 and $15. Subscribers may enjoy a 30 percent discount for ordering tickets to two events and save up to 40 percent on tickets for both operas and the evening concert. Tickets for the opening performance on June 19 with the post performances champagne celebration are $70 and $62.

The audience is encouraged to picnic before all Festival performances on the Lawrenceville School grounds. Gourmet picnics may be ordered with tickets, or patrons are welcome to bring their own.

To order tickets and picnics or more information, call the Festival Box Office at 683-5468, or write the June Opera Festival Box Office, Box 1379, Princeton 08542.

Auditions Are Scheduled For Professional Chorus

Auditions will be held Wednesday, June 24, and Wednesday, July 1 for a newly forming professional vocal ensemble.

The 12 singers selected will be musicians from the central New Jersey area who have finished their schooling and are establishing careers. Conducted by Lynne Ransom, the group will specialize in secular music of the 19th and 20th centuries and will feature solo repertoire as well as ensemble music. The soloists will concentrate on new and rarely performed works, especially those by composers who live in New Jersey.

Music

Auditions will take place in Princeton. Singers will be asked to perform an aria by Bach or Handel, an art song by a 20th-century composer, and a choral excerpt by Dallapiccola. An accompanist will be provided.

For more information, or to schedule an audition, call 452-3948 days or (215) 321-0647.

String Quartet Here For Outdoor Concert

The 1987 season of the Princeton University Summer Chamber Concerts begins Saturday, June 27, at 8 with a concert by the Mendelssohn Quartet.

The concert will take place in the Graduate College courtyard, with parking available in the lot off Springdale Road. If it rains, the concert will be moved to Richardson Auditorium, Alexander Hall. Concertgoers may call 452-5977 after 4 to verify concert location.

The Mendelssohn Quartet first captured the attention of the chamber music world in 1981 as the winner of the Young Concert Artists international audition. The Mendelssohn has been resident quartet at the Santa Fe Chamber Music Festival since 1984 and at Merkin Concert Hall in New York since 1979.

Quartet members include Ida Levin and Nicholas Mann, violin; Ira Weller, viola, and Marcy Rosen, cello. For their program in Princeton the quartet will perform Mozart's Quartet in F Major, K. 590, Quartet No. 2, Lettres intimes, by Janacek, and Quartet in F Major by Ravel.

Two Japanese Musicians To Perform at Library

The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present Mayuki Fukuhara, violinist and Chie Sato Roden, pianist, in a duo recital on Sunday, June 21 at 3 p.m.

The first part of the program will consist of Sonata for Violin and Piano in D major Op. 12, No. 1 by Beethoven and Johann Sebastian Bach's Sonata for Solo Violin in G minor. After intermission, the program will continue with From Far Beyond Chrysanthemums and November Fog, by Toru Takemitsu and Sonata for Violin and Piano in G minor, Op. 78 by Brahms.

The concert is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

Story and his Variation and Finale from Fancy Free, and Aaron Copland's Hoe-Down from Rodeo. In addition to marches by John Philip Sousa, the Princeton Pops concert will feature special works celebrating the 200th Anniversary of the Constitution, including excerpts from Randall Thompson's The Testament of Freedom, William Steffe's The Battle Hymn of the Republic and Samuel Ward's America, performed with The Westminster Summer High School Choir.

Mr. Pratt is Associate Conductor of the NJSO, music director of the June Opera Festival, and conductor of the Princeton University Orchestra. With the NJSO he has been heard in subscription performances, youth concerts and summer pops concerts throughout the state.

Ticket prices are $6 general admission, with discounts for advance purchase, seniors and children. Tickets may be obtained by calling the Chamber of Commerce at 921-7676.

PHS Chorus Wins Award At N.J. Choral Festival

The Princeton High School Women's Chorus directed by William Trego and Nancianne Parrella was given highest honors at the N.J. state Choral Festival, sponsored by the American Choral Directors Association.

The PHS women's performance was rated "superior," which represents "the finest conceivable performance for the event, worthy of distinction, recognized among the best." The chorus was awarded the best score, making them No. 1 in the state.

Jazz Quartet to Perform At Open Air Concert

The Willard Wright jazz quartet will perform Thursday, June 25 at 7 p.m. on the front lawn of the Nassau Inn. The concert will showcase original as well as standard jazz material.

Band leader Willard Wright, who is known in the area as a member of the Fusionaires, will be playing bass. On saxophone will be Jesse Andrus, also a member of the Fusionaires. Randy Sutin, who has recently been performing with jazz greats Cecil Payne and Junior Cook, will be on vibes. Drummer Cedric Jensen, who has appeared with Tal Farlow, Eddie Jefferson, and Woody Shaw, rounds out the quartet.

The rain date is June 26 at 7. The audience is invited to bring blankets and chairs. For more information call 530-0353.

Classes in Watercolor Twice-Weekly in July

An introduction to watercolor painting, "Watercolors in July," will be offered at the Jewish Center. Eight sessions will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 10 to noon, beginning on July 7. Instructor Amy Kassiola structures the class for adults to experiment with watercolors and heighten their enjoyment of the medium both as painters and viewers. Beginners are welcome, as are those with some experience who wish to learn a spontaneous approach to watercolors. Ms. Kassiola has exhibited in juried and one-person shows. Her 14 works, "The Hurston Suite," were displayed by the New Jersey State Department of Education in Edison this winter, and a new painting, Green Slice, is included in Mercer County Artists '87 at Mercer County Community College. She has taught at the Princeton and West Windsor Adult Schools and the Princeton Art Association. For further information, call the Center office at 921-0100.

Artisans May Apply For YWCA Craft Event

The 14th annual Craft-women's Marketplace, a juried exhibition and sale for the benefit of the YWCA Pearl Bates Scholarship Fund, has been scheduled for Saturday, November 21. Men and women artisans and crafters are invited to participate in this show, which is known for its quality and diversity. Crafters from four states were featured in the 1986 show. Applicants may contact the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, 924-5571, to receive an application form. Applications must be postmarked no later than July 31 and must be accompanied by three or more slides illustrating the crafter's work.

Workshops for Children Planned at Arts Council

Susan Kriegman will hold art workshops during July for children in grades 2-5. They will take place at the Arts Council Building. Ms. Kriegman holds a B.S. in art education and a master of fine arts degree. She has taught art in New Jersey public schools for five years. For additional information, call Ms. Kriegman at 799-3012.

Exhibits
Abstract charcoal drawings by Donna Conklin of Princeton will be on exhibit in the Henry Chauncey Conference Center at Educational Testing Service from June 15 through July 31. Many of the drawings are abstract landscapes that often

Being Black and Female, Joan Hill Suffered More

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Mayor Barbara Sigmund has gone on record as saying no evidence of racism has been presented in the recent proceedings against Ms. Joan Hill, nor in the recent decision of the Borough to uphold her 30 day suspension.

I am just so very sorry that Ms. Hill chose to call Mr. Gaylord a fornicating homosexual (in other terminology). I believe that Judge Sidney Souter was totally infuriated by the public display of Ms. Hill, one public official, cursing Mr. Gaylord, another.

If Ms. Hill had used the words in his courtroom, she would have most certainly been slapped with a contempt charge. The judge found her guilty and issued his sentence, but he, in essence set her up to be tried again. His public lambasting in the local newspapers had the effect of making Ms. Hill a hostile plaintiff in the first case and a hostile defendant in the other.

Based on newspaper reports, it appears that both tried to use power gained in their respective positions to intimidate the other. One, Mr. Gaylord chose to make Ms. Hill hold her water and refrain from smoking in his capacity of being in charge. The other, Ms. Hill appears to have tried to shore up her case by stating her professional position.

I don't think that the Borough would have contributed either against or on her behalf. But, an upstanding pillar of the legal profession and the P.B.A. had begun work to discredit her professionally. I believe that having their faces reddened in that fashion is the only reason they launched the investigation.

Yes, the Mayor has done her homework and no incidence of overt racism can be documented. It is the subtlety of the nature of racism in this elite community which makes it far more invidious than if "white only" signs were posted all over town.

There was an old gent in this town who got intoxicated and drove all over the town regularly — arrested regularly. He was white and a Professor at the University, but he probably did not use bad language in public. But another old gent, also white would regularly get drunk and climb the trees in front of Lahiere's and call anyone who passed any creative profanity he could muster.

There is a young white guy in town who cusses his head off for days on end, and like the gent who climbs the trees, I have heard him euss the investigating officer(s). All of this is to say that if Ms. Hill had been male, white and had not cursed the Sergeant perhaps this would not have gone so far. As the Rev. Michael C.R. Nabors has said, we must fight to slay racism, sexism, classism and all other "isms" in this community.

Message to Joan Hill: Take Your Punishment

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I receive the TOWN TOPICS each week and every week since the time of her arrest, I have had to read about Ms. Hill's crying to the public for her defense.

We have people killed everyday because of drunken drivers on the road like herself. This case should have been closed months ago.

I address you, Ms. Hill: take your punishment, act your age, take your penalty like an adult, and stop using your position for sympathy.

Warm Weather Brings Ticks and Lyme Disease

Spring increases dangers of insect-borne illnesses. Allergic reactions to bee, wasp and hornet stings, viruses transmitted by mosquito bites, and tick-related illnesses all increase as the weather warms and more time is spent outdoors.

The Princeton Regional Health Department is particularly concerned about Lyme disease, a potentially serious illness caused by bites from ticks found in woods, marshy areas and tall grass. Lyme disease is caused by a spirochete, a type of bacteria transmitted when an infected tick begins to take blood. The majority of cases occur between May and July, although the disease has been diagnosed during every month of the year.

Lyme disease was discovered in 1975 in the town of Lyme, Conn. Since that time, cases have been reported in other northeastern states, including New Jersey. The small ticks that carry the disease are particularly common in the wooded areas in central New Jersey, and a survey of area physicians found that in 1986 there was an increase in the numbers of people treated for Lyme disease.

The characteristic symptom of Lyme disease is a red, "target-shaped," ring-like spot with a central clearing that expands and is hot to the touch. Some individuals will develop many of these spots (a rash), even on areas of the body that were not bitten by the tick. The rash will gradually disappear on its own, although disease is still present. It is important to seek immediate medical attention at this time, especially if the rash appeared after exposure to a wooded area. In about half of all Lyme disease cases, the rash is preceded or accompanied by other symptoms such as fever, headache, fatigue, malaise, muscle and joint pain, and stiff neck.

If the rash is diagnosed and treated with antibiotics, the more serious complications of Lyme disease can be prevented. When not promptly treated, arthritis, heart and/or nervous system disorders may develop in some individuals.

The wooded areas of the Princeton area are an ideal environment for the ticks that carry Lyme disease. Sensible precautions and prompt diagnosis and treatment are important to avoid serious, long-term effects.

Since Lyme disease is difficult to detect, the Health Department offers these suggestions to help prevent or quickly detect the illness. Anyone who camps, bikes, fishes, hunts or otherwise spends time in wooded areas or fields should wear long pants tucked into boots at the ankle. Before and after leaving the area, clothing, pets and bodies should be checked for ticks. Remove any ticks that may have attached themselves.

If the characteristic rash develops, contact a physician immediately so that a diagnosis and appropriate antibiotic treatment can begin. For further information, call the Princeton Regional Health Department at 924-3407.

Firemen Are Upset At Condition of Roads

To the Editor, Town Topics:
The following letter has been sent to the Mayors of Princeton Borough and Township.

The officers and members of Princeton Engine Co. No. 1 wish to express their displeasure and concern over the current condition of Princeton's roads. For many months the roads in our town have been in terrible disrepair, and as an organization which serves the community, we feel it our duty to voice our complaint.

We particularly notice this problem during winter months, when it appears that our roads remain snow-covered longer than any other area towns' roads. The trucks haven't had much difficulty getting through in most cases, yet many members may have difficulty getting to the trucks fast enough to adequately man them.

Now that the winter has ended, we have been left with more problems of large pot holes than years past and believe something must be done immediately.

Beairst and Melissa Mechowski, Lawrence High School; Steven Farkas, Karen Kessler and Janet McCrory, West Windsor-Plainsboro High School; and Douglas Young, Montgomery High School.

Thirteen area companies contributed in excess of $350 each to the program.

David Y. Feng, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hsi K. Feng, 131 Morris Road, Princeton Junction, was elected corresponding secretary of Eta Kappa Nu, the national electrical engineering and computer science honor society. He is a student at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa.

Four area residents have been named to the Dean's List at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

They are, Anne M. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beverley M. Brown, 76 Stetson Way; Kimberly Mathes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burke W. Mathes, 41 Westcott Road; Michele L. Samaroo, daughter of Louise M. Robichaud, 203 Bertrand Drive; and Diane L. Sprow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Sprow, 258 Mercer Street.

Barbara King-Shazer, 164 Clover Lane, has been named to the board of directors of Associate Alumnae of Douglass College.

Rebecca M. Davis, 62 Erdman Avenue, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, the national honor society, at Tufts University. She is a senior majoring in Russian language and literature.

Four area residents have received the New Jersey Young Citizens Award established last year by Sen. Bill Bradley.

They are, Erik Hagman and Kelly Tahaney, both of Princeton; Peter Van Vranken of Pennington; and Heather Kientz of Lawrenceville.

They are among 355 award recipients in the state.

Area students have been selected for membership in the Open Door at the Lawrenceville School. Students are selected by members of the faculty on the basis of character, commitment, personality and achievement to represent the student body on public occasions.

From Princeton they are, James F. Bishop Jr., Alexander D. Cronin, Daniel F. Fee, James P. Schorr, John M.B. Sheehan, and Gregory P. Tsai. From Princeton Junction, Shahid R. Aziz, and

Barbara Happer

Christopher A. D'Arcy, and from Lawrenceville, Geoffrey S. Manikin.

Barbara Happer, 559 Riverside Drive, has been elected president of the Mercer County School Nurses' Association. She has been nurse at the Grace Norton Rogers Middle School in Hightstown for the past five years.

Shaun A. Edenfield, son of Mr. & Mrs. Ed Edenfield, 89 Sayre Drive, has accepted an offer of admission from Johnson & Wales (Culinary) College, Providence, R.I., and will begin his freshman year with advanced standing.

He is a 1984 graduate of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School and is presently on the staff of Scanticon-Princeton, where he was named "Employee-of-the-Month" for January.

Navy Seaman Recruit Wade E. Ernst, son of Edwin R. and Helena J. Ernst, 9 Stonewick Drive, Belle Mead, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

Elizabeth Bayan, of Princeton, received a silver medal during Atlantic Community College's Academy of Culinary Arts awards ceremony.

Novelist Joyce Carol Oates, Honey Brook Drive, was honored by her hometown, Lockport, N.Y., which proclaimed the seasonal opening of the state Barge Canal which passes through the town "Joyce Carol Oates Days."

She was given a key to the city by the mayor during the opening of the new Lockport Canal Museum and a water color of the canal by a local artist. Ms. Oates, who attended elementary and junior high schools in Lockport, told residents the town is never far from her mind when she writes her famous novels.

"In a sense, I'm always thinking of it," she was quoted in the Union-Sun Journal of Lockport as saying. "James Joyce has his Dublin, and I have my Lockport."

Lockport is about 10 miles east of Niagara in the westernmost area of New York state.

After reading John R. Wilmot's article, "The Princeton Branch," in the June issue of Trains, it will be hard to pass the Dinky without imagining the parson-like figure of Woodrow Wilson walking from his home to board the Dinky on the first leg of his journey to Washington for his inauguration as President.

Mr. Wilmot's eight-page article, illustrated with many historic photos of the station and surrounding area, is filled with information and anecdotes about the line — the nation's shortest scheduled rail service.

The branch was founded in 1865, the second year of the Civil War. Its first station, built the year it opened, was a wooden building. It was replaced several times over: in 1873, 1890, and in 1920, when the present station house was built.

In 1903, the Liberty Bell, on a trip from Philadelphia to Boston, made a short diversion to Princeton. It was exhibited on a flat car for 15 minutes, before continuing north.

A bit of confusion came about in 1970, when then Dinky operator Penn Central announced that Princeton Station would be henceforth known as Princeton University, and Princeton Junction would be known as Princeton. Two weeks after the announcement, a memo went out stating that the change wouldn't be made after all.

Mr. Wilmot, 71, of Howe Circle, is a native of Detroit. He graduated from the University of Illinois in 1938, and worked for four railroads and the Army before becoming a transportation consultant. He rode the Dinky for 22 years.

Herbert Robbins of Hopewell Township, a mathematical statistician currently on the Rutgers faculty, has received the New York Mayor's Award for Science and Technology. He was one of four men and women honored by Mayor Edward Koch at ceremonies at Gracie Mansion. The awards were established by the mayor in 1984 to encourage the growth of scientific and technological activities.

Joyce Carol Oates

Prof. Robbins, 72, who joined the Rutgers faculty last July as New Jersey Professor of Mathematical Statistics, is known for his work with probability and statistics. He is director of the newly formed Institute of Biostatistics, which is pioneering the use of statistics to chart environmental hazards and health concerns.

A professor emeritus at Columbia University, Dr. Robbins remains a guest lecturer there. He did his undergraduate and graduate work at Harvard University, receiving his Ph.D. in 1938. He taught at New York University, the University of North Carolina and the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor in addition to Columbia.

Clubs and Organizations

Links, Inc. sponsored a symposium on alcohol and drug abuse for families at risk at Rutgers University, with Mother Clara Hale, founder of Hale House Center for the Promotion of Human Potential, Inc., New York City, as honored guest.

The Links is a national organization of black women committed to using their resources to improve the quality of life in black America, both culturally and educationally. Princeton area members include the chapter president, Dr. Cecilia Hodges Drewry; Mrs. Frank Bryant; Mrs. Hans Fluczynski; Mrs. Edward L. Gibson; Mrs. Gordon Mack; Mrs. Joseph Patterson; Mrs. Howard Waxwood; and Mrs. Philip White.

For further information, call Kay A. Mack at 924-4812.

A speech contest will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday at the Princeton United Methodist Church. It is sponsored by the Princeton chapter of Toastmasters International, and is part of a regional competition. The public is invited to attend. For further information, call 921-6685 or 799-3161.

The YWCA has elected eight new members to its board of directors, bringing the board to a total of 37 members. Wendy Rayner is the incoming president.

New to the board are Liz Adams, of Hamilton Square, president of AET Associates and a former professional YWCA staff member; Susan Breen of Princeton, who chaired the 1986 YWCA Craftwomen's Marketplace that funds the Bates Scholarship program; Elly de Boer of Princeton, YWCA Teen Volunteer, active in local organizations and president of the Women's College Club.

Also, Pat Jones of West Windsor, who teaches at Stuart School and serves as coordinator of minority recruitment for the school; Patty Headley of East Windsor, volunteer coordinator for the YWCA; Judy Langille of Lawrenceville, an active member of the YWCA Artisans Guild and a quilting artist and teacher; Phyllis Darrah of West Windsor, a long-time Junior League and United Way volunteer; and Janet Meades Raffaelli of Rocky Hill, a partner in an engineering company and member of the Board of Rocky Hill Community Group.

The Mercer County Foster Parents Association will meet at 8 p.m. on June 23 at the county library at Route 1 and Darrah Lane. Sue Dondiego, immediate past president of the State Foster Parents Association, will be the guest speaker.

Newly elected officers for 1987-88 are Ray V. Lewis, East Windsor, president; Nancy Scott, Princeton, vice president; Margaret Colvin, Trenton, secretary; and Peter Soderberg, Princeton, treasurer.

Membership is open to all individuals interested in the welfare of children in foster care. Mercer County currently has more than 450 children in foster care, and there is a constant demand for quality foster homes in the county. For further information call Mr. Lewis at 448-6845 or Ms. Scott at 924-7352.

The Ladies Auxiliary of The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, will meet Tuesday at the squad house on North Harrison Street.

Tempt Your Taste Buds At Wadsworth's Bakery

"We're a gourmet bakery, but we also serve old-fashioned, hearty traditional things. The soup, salad and sandwiches are a convenience. The bakery is our specialty," comments Keith Wadsworth, co-owner of Wadsworth's Gourmet Bakery at 179 Nassau Street.

He and his father, Ray Wadsworth, also own The Flower Market, and they opened the new bakery and take-out shop just two months ago. Already there is an increasing number of regular customers. "We open at 6 a.m.," notes Keith Wadsworth, "and we get early morning runners then. We make fresh fruit salad every morning, and this is very popular with the runners."

NEW BAKERY IN TOWN: "We always wanted a food business, and we felt there was a place for a gourmet bakery," note Ray and Keith Wadsworth, owners of the new Wadsworth's Gourmet Bakery at 179 Nassau Street. Manager Ellie Warter is the dessert expert, specializing in pies and special occasion cakes.

Adds Ray Wadsworth (who was formerly Fire Chief of Princeton Borough): "The main thing is the bakery, though. Ellie Warter, our manager and dessert expert, used to do a lot of desserts for local restaurants, and she has a following. She does a lot of customized cakes, including wedding cakes and other special occasion cakes, such as birthday, anniversary, graduation, shower, Father's Day, etc."

"You don't get bored doing these cakes," says Miss Warter. "Although you can almost run out of time. Last weekend, we did five wedding cakes. It's fun, though, and it can be very creative. Every bride is different and has different choices. Some like dark chocolate, for instance, or carrot cake or cherry cheese cake.

It can be quite a variety."

Though the cakes are probably the most requested of her creations, Miss Warter confesses to a partiality for pies. "Pies are my own favorite," she says, "and I tend to make them as tarts because it's easier to cut them. Apple-sour cream is a very popular pie, as is butter rum and pecan."

For some, such delectable delights would be a constant source of temptation, but Miss Warter isn't troubled. "When we make something different, it can be tempting to keep tasting," she reports, "but most of the time, it's not a problem. Also, I'm used to this. I've worked in kitchens a long time now."

Other favorites among the baked goods are a variety of muffins, sweet rolls, croissants, brownies ("We're noted for our brownies. We use imported chocolate," says Miss Warter), chocolate chip cookies, peanut butter cookies, macaroons and shortbread.

Quality and freshness are emphasized at Wadsworth's. As Keith Wadsworth notes, "Everything is made right here except for the hard rolls and bread, and they are homemade and brought in fresh every day."

Sandwiches & Salads. His father adds that the bread is freshly sliced for each sandwich which includes a variety of fillings such as shrimp and tuna, egg and chicken salad. Popular salads are tortellini, potato, macaroni and Waldorf. Also available is a combination salad platter, including coleslaw, fruit salad and choice of chicken, shrimp or tuna.

Homemade soup, such as mulligatawny, French onion, cream of carrot and potato leek, are offered every day, and these are big sellers, as is the chili. Imported coffee (freshly ground on the premises), tea and fresh orange juice are also on hand.

Catering is something Wadsworth's is looking into, and Keith Wadsworth comments that, "We are available for catering on a small scale, and we provide salads, sandwiches and desserts for small groups."

Adds Miss Warter: "What we'd like to do, too, is develop an association with the business clientele, so that they'll stop in and pick up two dozen muffins in the morning for their breakfast meetings."

Another aspect of Wadsworth's is its gourmet shop, which includes such items as imported preserves, mustards, horseradish, coffee and teas. Such top-of-the-line brands as Chambord of France and Cartwright & Butler of England are available.

"We also do a lot of gourmet gift baskets," remarks Ray Wadsworth, "with all different kinds of mustards, jams, cookies, chocolate, cheeses, apples and other fruit. They're handsomely packaged and from $35 and up, they are very good holiday or birthday gifts."

Prices run the gamut at Wadsworth's. Sandwiches are $2.95 to $4.50, soups $1.75 to $2.50, salads 95 cents to $1.50 and $4.25 for the combination platter.

Cookies are 3 for $1 and up, brownies 85 cents to $1 and muffins 75 cents. Slices of cake and pie are $1.50 and up. Prices are reduced if items are bought in quantity.

Costs for special occasion cakes depend on the size and type (8-inch or 10-inch, etc.), but they are usually $10 and up, and it is best to order at least two or more days ahead for these cakes.

With its emphasis on quality and freshness and the delicious products it offers, Wadsworth's is fast becoming a favorite stop for many Princetonians. The cozy, attractive atmosphere will appeal to many customers, as well, and it is the hope of both Ray and Keith Wadsworth to keep that feeling. As Keith notes, "Nothing is mass-produced here. Everything is homemade, and we want to keep it that way. I like the challenge of the business and being my own boss, and of course, we want to see it grow and have even more people come in and see what we have. But we don't want it to get too big. We want to keep it manageable."

Wadsworth's Gourmet Bakery is open Tuesday-Friday 6 to 5:30, Saturday 7:30 to 5:30 and Sunday 7:30 to 1 p.m.

A Variety of Bicycles Highlights Jay's Cycles

"I got my first three-speed bike when I was 10," recalls Jay Mironov, owner of Jay's Cycles at 249 Nassau Street. "That was very exciting, and I still remember it today. No one else had one like it. Most of the bikes then had the fat, balloon tires."

Many of us can remember the thrill of receiving that first bicycle, but Mr. Mironov's interest extended beyond just riding around with the other kids. His father, Nathan Mironov, had been operating the Tiger Auto Store, which included bikes, on Witherspoon Street since 1952, and at the age of 14, Jay began working for him. "I did all the repairs," he remembers, smiling. "It was definitely on-the-job-training. I was always interested in bikes, though, and we are the oldest, continuously operated family-owned bike shop in Princeton."

Ten years ago, the store moved to its present location, and just nine months ago, it expanded to include a shop in the Princeton Meadows Shopping Center in Plainsboro. The new shop carries a variety of bicycles, including Schwinn, and has 80 bikes on the floor.

"Biking continues to be very popular," reports Mr. Mironov. "It has been for the past five years especially. People are into fitness and exercise. Bicycling is not just a kid's toy anymore. It's now a major form of exercise and recreation. It has really taken over as the Number One participating sport."

With 150 bikes on display in the Nassau Street store, Jay's offers a tremendous variety of bikes. Customers come in all ages, shapes and sizes, and, accordingly, there are bikes for tots (age three and up), teens and old-timers alike. Everyone can ride a bike and have fun and exercise doing it.

Jay's carries such brands as Ross, Raleigh, Fuji, Univega and Trek, as well as Bertoni and Falcon racing bikes.

YOU CAN FIND what you need in TOWN TOPICS.

BIKES FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY: 150 bicycles — from touring to racing to mountain to free-style — in all sizes, styles and colors are on display at Jay's Cycles, 249 Nassau Street. Owner Jay Mironov and his wife Marilyn will make sure you get the bike that is especially suited to you.

"The most popular bikes for adults are 10-speeds and mountain bikes (off-road or all-terrain bikes)," says Mr. Mironov. "But a lot of people still like the three-speeds with the touring (upright) handlebars, too. A very popular bike now is the Raleigh Aluminum Technium bike. It gives the nicest ride and is the lowest-priced aluminum bike. At $280 and up, it's a great buy and equal to bikes that are double its price."

"Free-style bikes are very popular with kids, especially boys from eight years old and up," he continues. "They like them because they can do tricks on them. MongOOSE, Harro, Diamondback and GT Performers are the hot free-style bikes."

Scooters, Too. "Scooters and skateboards are still very popular too," he adds. "It's the 12-, 13- and 14-age group that's into skateboards and kids a little younger wanting the scooters."

Exercise bikes are in stock also, with Tunturi available, as well as Schwinn Air-Dyne at the Princeton Meadows store.

Accessories include saddles, helmets ("They're very popular," says Mr. Mironov. "Everyone should wear one. As soon as someone falls off their bike, they come in for a helmet"), locks, shoes, gloves, sunglasses, baskets, handlebar bags, pumps, computers to record distance, speed, etc., child's seats and a variety of cycling magazines.

"We also have a whole room for clothes now," reports Mr. Mironov. "The shirts, shorts and jackets are very popular, and we carry such brands as Bellwether, J.T. Activ, Descente, Hind and Nike."

Bicycle repair is also a big part of Jay's business, and as Mr. Mironov says, "We do general service. We fix a lot of flat tires — in fact, providing new tubes is the most common repair. And we do a lot of adjustments — adjusting bikes back to where they were originally. It's probably a good idea to have your bike serviced once a year. We build bikes, too," he continues. "We'll custom-make them, and we have a custom wheel builder."

"People are looking for price and service," adds Mr. Mironov, and prices at his shop are $165 and up for scooters and $120 and up for skateboards. ("Our skateboards are an excellent product," says Mr. Mironov. "They're all made of wood.") Baskets are $2.99 and up, locks $2.50 to $30 and helmets $36 and up.

So, with summer just around the corner, why not try biking? If your favorite old standby of many years needs some repair work, or if you decide to splurge and treat yourself to a new bike, Jay's Cycles can handle the repairs and also provide you with a wide selection of the latest bikes and equipment.

And customer satisfaction is a priority at Jay's. As Mr. Mironov says, "Selling a decent product and having the customer say it's a good product is important. A satisfied customer is a customer who will return. The best advertising in the world is a happy customer."

Hours at Jay's Cycles are Monday through Friday 10 to 7 and Saturday 9 to 5:30.

Engagements and Weddings

Engagements

A September wedding is planned.

Kuhn-LaChance. Sarah Kuhn, daughter of Kathryn M. Kuhn, 3 Evelyn Place, and Thomas S. Kuhn of Boston, Mass., to Ralph E. LaChance, son of Mrs. Armand LaChance of Danielson, Conn., and the late Mr. LaChance.

Ms. Kuhn is the manager of a research project at the Stone Center at Wellesley College. Mr. LaChance is a senior manager at Data General Corporation.

An August wedding is planned.

Smith-Haas. Gail J. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Smith of West Windsor, to David S. Haas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Haas of Lawrenceville.

Miss Smith received a B.S. degree in business administration/equestrian studies from Averett College in Danville, Va. She is a manager and riding instructor at Tara Stables in West Windsor.

Mr. Haas, a graduate of the Chubb Institute, is a lead system programmer at the Sea-Land Corporation in Plainfield.

Positano-Hanson. Lori Positano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Positano of Hamilton Square, to Gregory Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hanson of Hopewell.

Miss Positano, a graduate of Steinert High School, is a word processing specialist at Besselaar Associates.

Mr. Hanson, a graduate of Pennington Preparatory School, Mercer County Community College, and New England College, is a field representative for Chrysler First.

Weddings

Rhoades-Rogers. Mary B. Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Rogers of Dallas, Texas, to James C. Rhoades, son of Mrs. John H. Rhoades, 186 Russell Road, and the late Mr. Rhoades; June 13 in Dark Harbor, Me.

The bride graduated from Greenhill Preparatory School in Dallas and, in 1985, from Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N.Y., with an economics major.

Her husband attended the Fay School in Southboro, Mass., and Avon Old Farms in Avon, Conn. He graduated from Skidmore College in 1984 with a degree in business management.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Europe and will live in Dallas, where the groom will continue his helicopter career.

Kochis-Bailey. Maryellen M. Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore V. Lien of Hopewell, to John M. Kochis, son of Jane Kochis of Hightstown and the late George Kochis; at Washington Crossing State Park, the Rev. Terry Grove officiating.

The bride, a graduate of Hopewell Valley Central High School and Mercer County Vocational School, attends Mercer County Community College. She is employed by Valuation Counselors Inc. in Lawrenceville.

Mr. Kochis is a graduate of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School and Mercer County Community College. He owns his own landscaping business.

After honeymooning in the Cayman Islands and Disney World, the couple are living in Hopewell.

The commencement address was given by Karen Elliott House, foreign editor of The Wall Street Journal, who is a Stuart parent. Commencement day began with a Baecaloreale Mass celebrated for seniors and their families by Rev. Patriek Connor, SVD, school chaplain.

The traditional Prizes and Awards ceremony followed at 10:30 a.m. Diplomas were awarded by Sister Joan Magnetti, RSCJ, headmistress, and L. Eric Solomon, chairman of the board of trustees, at a 5 p.m. outdoor ceremony. Carol Florkiewicz, chairman of the physical education department, gave the invocation. Kathryn Hostettler was senior class speaker, and Jasmine Ferrer, the senior class welcomer. A reception in the sundial garden concluded the day.

Eighth Graders Graduate From Chapin School

Sixteen members of the Class of 1987 received diplomas from Chapin School at the school's 55th graduation last week.

Special prizes were awarded by Chapin's retiring Headmaster Thomas E. Thompson.

Receiving special awards were Scott Gill of Princeton and Miles Truesdell of Lawrenceville, the Sports Award for outstanding participation and sportsmanship; Justin Grow of Ringoes, the Mildred Brown Reading Award for outstanding progress; John Paul Kline of Mereerville and Chip Truesdell, Citizenship Awards; and Justin Grow (art), Tammy Kornfeld of Yardley (music), and Eric Deaver of Cream Ridge (drama), the Kim Proccacio Arts Awards for enthusiasm and originality in the arts program.

Tammy Kornfeld was presented with the inaugural Upper School Faculty Award for positive attitude and a spirit of cooperation, and Donn Strulowitz of Lawrenceville received a special Headmaster's Award for participation, courage, and perseverance in the outdoor education program.

The Chapin Parents' Association Community Award was presented to Joshua Block of East Brunswick for participating enthusiastically and making significant contributions to the Chapin community. The Trustees Award, "for the student whose attitude in the classroom and conduct among his fellow students constitute outstanding citizenship," was presented to Ericka Vereen of Ewing Township.

Members of the graduating class from Princeton, are: Scott G. Gill and Jeffrey J. Maguire; and from Lawrenceville, Daniel R. Fleckner, Donn M. Strulowitz, and Miles W. Truesdell III.

109 Seniors Graduate From The Hun School

One hundred and nine seniors, their families, teachers, and friends gathered for the 73rd commencement of the Hun School on June 5.

Presiding at the ceremonies were Headmaster G. Gerald Donaldson Jr. and Vice Chairman of the Board of Trustees John E. Stoddard, whose daughter Marian was among the graduates. Jean Shepherd, who made his reputation in the 1950's and '60's as a late-night talk show host on WOR radio station, and is also a well-known American humorist, writer, movie and TV director, was the commencement speaker.

Among the students honored for their academic and extracurricular accomplishments were Valedictorian Katherine Fehskens of Lawrenceville, who received the English and Science Prizes, as well as the James A. McFadden Memorial Award for honor, sportsmanship, and deep loyalty to her friends, family and God. Salutatorian John Eppler of Princeton received the German Prize and the Ralph Sharp Memorial Mathematics Prize.

The John L. Kuschke Memorial Award was given to Linda Deputy of Yardley for her accomplishments in photography. The John R. Scott Memorial Award went to B. Nicholas Miller for excellence in athletics, sportsmanship, leadership and school spirit. The Robert Strianese Memorial Award went to Patricia Close, whose perseverance, leadership, and loyalty to the Hun School earned her the respect of students and faculty.

The Headmaster's Award, given to that individual in the senior class who embodies the concept that one person can make a difference, went to Kristin Urbaniak of Yardley, who also received the Spanish Prize. The Faculty Prize, awarded to that member of the senior class who most exemplifies the characteristics of integrity, reliability, sportsmanship, character, and leadership went to Nicole Arendt of Kingston.

Other departmental prizes went to seven seniors. Maureen McNulty of Lawrenceville received the Helen Farnum Memorial History Prize; Christopher Shields, the Edward L. Arnold Memorial Art Prize; Lisa Troidl, the Vocal Music Prize; David Giuffre, the Instrumental Music Prize;

PESTS

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

The Aphid populations continue on oaks, maples and other shade trees. Bagworms will be active soon (they are general feeders). Some common host plants and trees include: juniper, arborvitae, hemlock, spruce, pine, larch, sycamores, black locust, linden, maples, elm, poplar and roses.

Maples (especially Norway maples) are still showing signs of foliar wilt. Environmental stress seems to be the blame. For best results, water trees deeply during dry hot weather and prune dead wood to prevent the entrance of wood decay and fungi in the future.

Second generation gypsy moth and cicada will also be emerging for the next few weeks.

Should you have any questions, or are in need of spraying, call WOODWINDS ASSOCIATES at 609-924-3500. We are glad to be of service!

Princeton Post 76 Splits Its First Legion Games

Virtually nothing gets past the watchful eye of Princeton Post 76 manager Larry Bender.

So there must have been a number of things the fifth-year manager saw that he didn't like in Sunday's 9-6 loss to Hopewell Post 339 in the opening weekend of play in the Mercer County American Legion League. It wasn't so much the physical errors (there were five of those) as it was the mental mistakes, the errors of omission, the generally sloppy play that a team picked to be one of the teams to beat in the league, such as Post 76, cannot indulge in.

Post 76 gained a split in its first two games when it outslugged Broad Street Park, 12-5, the previous day in the season's opener. Starting pitcher Tim Rumer, who went seven innings and struck out nine, got the win.

There will be no time, however, for reflection over past games because the three-games-a-week schedule will continue throughout the nine-week season. Post 76 will be at its home field in Mercer Park for three games this week. It will entertain Mithcell Davis this Wednesday and Ewing on Friday, both games starting at 5:45, and Lawrence Post 414

PUT OUT BY PETRONE: Princeton Post 76 third baseman Andy Petrone makes play at third in first inning, but Hopewell Post 339 came up with three runs en route to a 9-6 victory. Shortstop Tim O'Connell backs up play.

Saturday at 1. Earlier this week, it was scheduled to oppose Hamilton Post 31 at Mercer County Community College.

Before the start of the Hopewell contest and after the opening handshake ceremonies (see box, this page) Bender gathered his team together and told them, "Let's have some fun out there but you've got to want it." Hopewell, it turned out, had more fun than Princeton.

Post 339 chased 76 starter Bill Byrne in the fourth inning when it scored four runs to take an 8-

2 lead. Byrne struggled from the start. He was touched for three runs in the first by the home team and never found this rhythm. In the three and two-third innings he worked, Byrne yielded eight hits, eight runs (seven earned), walked four and struck out one. Mark Lee came on to pitch the next two innings and Kevin Durling retired the final two batters.

Post 76 scored a run in the first inning without a hit for its only lead as leadoff batter Danny Sexton walked, stole second, advanced on an error and came home on a passed ball. After Hopewell had gone up, 4-1, Princeton narrowed the lead to 4-2 in the fourth when centerfielder John Mitchell singled and scored on a hit-and-run smash by DH Jeff "Scooter" Robinson that the Hopewell shortstop couldn't handle.

In the previous inning, Post 76 threatened when Darren Johnson walked and Sexton followed with a hit-and-run single, Bender holding Johnson up at second. Then with one out, Rumer lined a shot to right field that was grabbed and Johnson was doubled off second.

Post 76 added another run in the fifth and plated three more in the final inning off relief pitcher Ed Gola before the rally died.

Rumer singled and doubled, to go along with his three hits against Broad Street Park in the opener, and Robinson and shortstop Tim O'Connell each stroked two hits to account for six of Princeton's eight hits. Hopewell had nine, including a two-run triple by winning pitcher Carl Zentmayer.

Rumer Homers. Tim Rumer, the former Princeton High player, raises his level of play in Legion ball. A pitching and batting standout for Post 76 last year, Rumer unloaded a two-run homer in first at bat this season to stake Princeton to a 2-0, first-inning lead against Broad Street Park. On the mound, he blanked BSP the first two innings, but then ran into control problems in the third when the visitors scored four runs to take the lead. Rumer walked six before giving way to Lee in the eighth.

Post 76 regained the lead with three runs in the sixth and put the game away with six more in the seventh. In all, Post 76 erupted for 16 hits, 11 off starter and loser Jim Foster.

Rumer had three hits in five at bats and drove in three runs, while Sexton was a perfect 3-for-3 at the plate. Outfielders Jay Jordan and John Mitchell each contributed two hits. Each connected for a double as did Andy Petrone.

Catcher Greg Papciak tripped and drove in one run and Robinson also delivered a safety in his one appearance at the plate as a pinch hitter.

Bender had his team running, as Post 76 swiped nine bases, two each by Sexton, Jordan and Clarkson.

Lacrosse Coach Selected By Princeton University

Can Bill Tierney do for men's lacrosse what Tom O'Connell did for baseball at Princeton University?

Athletic officials are certainly hopeful that Tierney, who was chosen as the Tigers' new coach last week, can achieve the same kind of turnaround O'Connell brought new life to a moribund baseball program, winning an Eastern League title in 1985 for the first time in more than three decades.

It's been just about that long

Legion Managers Shake on Hand-Shaking

The great hand-shaking controversy in the Mercer County American Legion League seems to have been solved.

Last year, league officials were forced to urge a halt to the traditional post-game, hand-shaking ceremony, following two ugly incidents, one ending in a brawl between players and fans. Hard feelings between some teams festered.

Despite the official ban, some teams still engaged in the practice, while others were totally against it. There was no consensus.

This year the discord seems to have evaporated when a Solomon-like suggestion was embraced by the managers at a pre-season meeting. The suggestion: Have teams shake hands before the start of the game.

John Bernard
STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Did you know that a current big league player — outfielder Gary Redus — set an amazing record when he was in the minors ... Redus had the second-highest batting average of all-time for a season in pro baseball when he hit .462 for Billings in the Pioneer League in 1978 ... The only regular player who ever hit higher in pro ball over a full season was Walter Malmquist who batted .477 for York in the Nebraska State League in 1913.

Here's one that may surprise you ... Of all the players in big league baseball history in this century, which one made the most errors? ... Oddly enough, it was a man who was one of the first to be elected to the Hall of Fame and a man who's been called one of the greatest shortstops of all-time, Honus Wagner ... Wagner made 676 errors ... No other big leaguer ever made more.

since the Orange and Black last claimed an Ivy title in lacrosse. In recent years Princeton has barely been competitive, finishing below the .500 mark for the last four seasons.

Jerry Schmidt, who resigned after the team's final game last month, could manage just a 27-58 mark in his six-year stint here. The team was 4-26 the past two years. Princeton does play a schedule that includes most of the top teams in the country, but so do almost all the other Ivy teams.

Tierney comes to the Tigers from one of those top teams, Johns Hopkins, where he has been an assistant the past three years. The Blue Jays have won two NCAA championships during this period, including this year when they defeated Cornell in the title game at Rutgers.

Prior to that, he was the head coach at Rochester Institute of Technology for three seasons. During his tenure there, he compiled a 37-7 record and was twice named NCAA Division III Coach of the Year.

A 1973 graduate of Cortland State, Tierney earned his master's in physical education at Adelphi. He also coached at two high schools on Long Island, Levittown and Great Neck South.

Tierney is excited at the challenge he faces. "It seems every job I have had has been a rebuilding situation," he commented. "I think the key at Princeton will be to convince the players they are winners, and we'll do that."

63 PHS Athletes Honored At PHS Awards Ceremony

At an awards ceremony held last week at Princeton High School, 63 Little Tiger athletes were presented framed certificates in recognition of outside awards and honors each had received during the past school year. The certificates were presented by Friends of Princeton School Athletics, a support group of parents and friends.

The certificates listed various accomplishments by each recipient such as all-conference, all-area or all-state selections, coaches awards, player or athlete of the week nominations by area newspapers and so on. The Friends kept track of all such honors for each PHS athlete throughout the year.

In presenting the awards, Friends president Stanford von Mayrhauser commented that the recipients represented an "impressive number. You read about them piecemeal during the year; you forget how it (the number of the awards) adds up." Many of the athletes, he said, were underclassmen.

Two seniors, Mark Pirone and Noel Mann, received Friends of Princeton High School Athletics scholarship awards in the amount of $500.

Pirone was a tackle and tight end on the Princeton High foot-

He also set a new PHS record this spring in the discus for the PHS boys' track team, which captured the Group 3 state title. New Record Set in Shot In Junior Olympic Meet

Bram Reynolds of Princeton set a new Princeton record of 41-½ in the boys 10-11 shot put last week in the AAU Junior Olympics District Track Meet held at Lawrence High School.

Competing with teams from Hopewell, Lawrence and Flemington, Princeton captured six first places. The lone double winner from Princeton is Tiffany Davis who won the 50 and 100 meter dashes in 7:60 and 14:75 in the girls 10-11 bracket.

Others winners from Princeton who will advance to the Junior Olympics state championship meet to be held at Millburn High School are Steven George, who captured the boys 10-11 high jump with a leap of 4-1, and Ruth Williams, winner of the girls 12-13 shot put with a toss of 27-10.

The team of Eric McEwen, Marcus Johnson, Ricky Vernon and Karcem Smith won the 400 meter relay in 1:01.99.

A 35-Year-Old Mother Has an Exceptionally Good Year
Competing against the Nation's Best on the Ski Slopes

Thoughts raced through her head. "I'm 35 years old. I'm a mother. I have a business. I have a 20-month-old son. I'm racing against 21-year-olds. I shouldn't be here."

Anne Knudson-Fitzpatrick needed support. President of the Princeton Nautilus Fitness Center, she had been skiing since she was five years old and by 12 was the New Jersey state champion. But New Jersey is ... well, New Jersey — not a hot bed of national skiing champions.

The previous month, in March, skiing competitively again after being sidelined for a couple of years with a severe leg injury and taking time off for the birth of her son, Anne had entered the American Racing Ski Alliance (ARSA) preliminary Eastern Championships at Pico Peak in Vermont. The top finishers would be invited to compete in the second annual United States Ski Association's (USSA) National Citizen Championship, April 2-5, in Crested Butte, Colo., where 150 of the very best recreational racers from across the country would compete

At Pico, Anne had flashed her old form by finishing first in the giant slalom finals and sixth in the downhill. "Not bad for a 35-year-old from New Jersey," she felt.

"I won. I was so thrilled. It was incredible."

But this was the Nationals. This was Colorado, not the eastern slopes. She called her office. "I needed support," recalled Anne.

"I was psyched out. I was lying in my bunk with my ski boots on, thinking I didn't have the stamina of a 21-year-old. I really didn't. I didn't want to come back with my tail between my legs."

"Then I started to listen to my body. What it was capable of. How I had trained for this. You don't give up and become a wimp just because you're 35. If you think you can do something you can do it."

When she called, Lorrie Hones-Janick, her friend, confidant and executive director of Princeton Nautilus reassured her: "If you weren't good, you wouldn't be out there. If you can go through childbirth you can go through anything."

"She's right," thought Anne. Lorrie had supplied that final bit of confidence she needed. "I had a blast," recalled Anne.

Back on the slopes, she completed the fourth fastest run of the day. She finished sixth in the giant slalom and 11th in slalom for a combined seventh overall finish. Because the top six are invited to the National Championship Ski team, Anne was named first alternate.

There was more. A week later Anne competed in the 1987 Silver Series held April 11 at Hunter Mountain in New York. More than 650 racers had vied for the 100 available slots.

To reach the finals, Anne had to compete in seven races.

The championship event was a dual slalom between the two finalists. Because she had won her age bracket, Anne explained, she had to give a full second lead to her opponent, Nancy Morehouse, competing in the 19-29 bracket.

"She only beat me by a couple tenths of a second," said Anne, who finished second in the overall finals.

A good year? "You're darn right," said Anne. "I had an exceptionally good year."

30 at its Outdoor Tennis Center in Mercer County Park.

The program will be held every Tuesday and Thursday mornings, beginning at 9 and running for approximately two hours.

Participants sign up as individual players but games are played in a progressive partner doubles format; each player will have a new partner and two new opponents for each of the four rounds of play.

The fee is $10 for players who have a 1987 season pass and $15 for those without a card. Applications are available at the Outdoor Tennis Center or by calling the Park Commission Office at 989-6533. Deadline for applications is July 5.

Leaders Are Bunched In Women's Softball

Only one game separates the top three teams in the Mercer County Women's League, as the Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body lost for the first time last week.

Ficarro's is tied with 3 Seasons Sporting Goods for first place — both have 10-1 records — while Grove Plumbing is a game behind at 10-2.

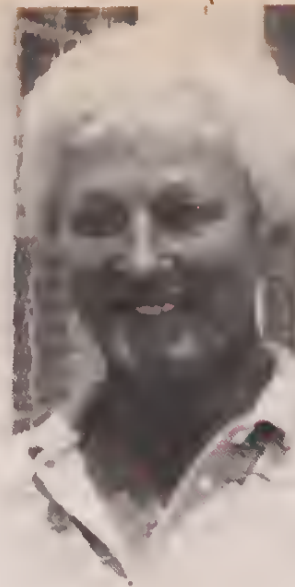

In its next start, Ficarro's will oppose Seven-Up Thursday evening at 8:30 on Field 1A at Mercer County Park.

Ficarro's was edged, 5-4, by 3 Seasons in a game in which it was guilty of six errors and left the tying run on second in the bottom of the last inning.

It got back on track with a 14-4 victory over Bill's Olde Tavern and an 8-1 decision over Vermeer North Atlantic.

Against Bill's Tavern, winning pitcher Clare Baxter allowed just two hits, as the game was stopped after six innings under the 10-run rule. Baxter got plenty of support at the plate from Cindy Lombardo who banged out three hits, including a triple. Contributing two hits each were Baxter, Sandi Hibbs and Beth Ault. Donna Nicholson tripled and drove in a pair of runs.

Doreen Ragazzo, Cheryl Silva and Janet Swick each stroked two hits and Dee Discavage added a three-run triple to pace Ficarro's to its win over Vermeer. Baxter allowed only five hits in getting the win. Dee Vertucci, sidelined the past two weeks with a knee injury, returned to the lineup and drove in a pair of runs.

SPRINGDALE WINNER: Dolores Allaire won the Handicap Tournament at Springdale Golf Course last week when she defeated Ruth Shaw in the finals. Others qualifying were Jean Brown, Sara Gillespie, Sybil Hargraves, Mimi Frantz, Vera Rose Arnold, Rose Johnson, Nancy Ford and Helen Sweeney.
